- C. B2B Trading Partner Agreements
- D. File Server
- E. Enterprise Application adapters (such as EBS, JDE, SAP, and Siebel)

OIC comes in two editions: Standard and Enterprise, with the latter offering advanced features.However, some capabilities are shared:
File Server (A):Both editions include the embedded SFTP File Server, enabling secure file transfers without an external server.
Visual Builder (B):This low-code tool for creating custom UIs and extensions is available in both editions, enhancing integration workflows.
The other options are exclusive to Enterprise Edition:
Integration Insight (C):Provides real-time analytics and monitoring, unavailable in Standard.
B2B Trading Partner Agreements (D):Supports EDI-based B2B transactions, an Enterprise-only feature.
Enterprise Application adapters (E):Adapters for complex systems like EBS, JDE, SAP, and Siebel are restricted to Enterprise, while Standard supports basic SaaS and REST/SOAP adapters.

Which statement is NOT valid concerning OIC B2B capabilities?

- A. It is mandatory to perform validations on EDI documents for inbound translations; however, for outbound translations, it is optional.
- B. A previously created Trading Partner Agreement is optional when configuring the inbound or outbound translation.
- C. You can customize standard Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) documents by adding new schema constructs or by editing existing constructs.

Answer: A

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:
OIC's B2B capabilities, available in Enterprise Edition, support EDI document exchange with trading partners. Key points:

Option A:Validation of EDI documents is configurable but not strictly mandatory for inbound translations.
OIC allows users to enable/disable validation for both inbound and outbound flows based on requirements, making this statement invalid.
Option B:A Trading Partner Agreement (TPA) defines the exchange protocol and is optional during configuration; OIC can process B2B documents without a predefined TPA if basic settings are provided. This is valid.
Option C:OIC supports customization of EDI schemas (e.g., adding or editing constructs) via the B2B design tools, making this statement valid.
The flexibility in validation settings ensures adaptability to various B2B scenarios, debunking the rigid requirement in A.
