NEW QUESTION # 213

An analyst is currently working on a ticket to revamp a company-wide dashboard that has been in use for five years. Which of the following should be the first step in the development process?

- A. Talk to the group that made the request to determine the desired goal.
- B. Develop a more streamlined dashboard to roll out by the next delivery date.
- C. Make changes to a frequently used report that is already in production.
- D. Build an additional dashboard with fewer views tailored toward each specific team.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth

When undertaking the task of revamping a long-standing company-wide dashboard, it's imperative to begin by understanding the specific needs and objectives of the stakeholders who requested the update. This ensures that the revamped dashboard aligns with current business requirements and provides relevant insights.

Option A: Talk to the group that made the request to determine the desired goal.

Rationale: Engaging with the requesting group allows the analyst to gather detailed information about their expectations, the challenges they face with the current dashboard, and the specific metrics or data visualizations they require. This collaborative approach ensures that the final product is user-centric and meets the actual needs of its users.

Option B: Make changes to a frequently used report that is already in production.

Rationale: Modifying an existing report without first understanding the specific needs of the stakeholders may lead to changes that do not address the core issues or requirements. This approach lacks the foundational step of requirement gathering and may result in misaligned outcomes.

Option C: Build an additional dashboard with fewer views tailored toward each specific team.

Rationale: While creating specialized dashboards for individual teams can be beneficial, doing so without first consulting the stakeholders may lead to unnecessary work or solutions that don't align with their needs. It's essential to first understand the overarching goals before deciding on the number and scope of dashboards required.

Option D: Develop a more streamlined dashboard to roll out by the next delivery date.

Rationale: Prioritizing a quick rollout without stakeholder consultation risks delivering a product that doesn't meet user needs. The focus should be on the quality and relevance of the dashboard, not just the speed of delivery.

Conclusion: Initiating the development process by engaging with the stakeholders ensures that the dashboard revamp is aligned with current business objectives and user requirements. This foundational step is critical for the success of the project.

NEW QUESTION # 214

A data analyst needs to perform a full outer join of a customer's orders using the tables below:

Which of the following is the mean of the order quantity?

- A. 78.8
- B. 81.5
- C. 73.5
- D. 76.5

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is D. OUTER JOIN, seven rows.

An OUTER JOIN is a type of SQL join that returns all the rows from both tables, regardless of whether there is a match or not. If there is no match, the missing side will have null values. An OUTER JOIN can be either a LEFT JOIN, a RIGHT JOIN, or a FULL JOIN, depending on which table's rows are preserved. Using the example tables, a FULL OUTER JOIN query would look like this:

SELECT Cust_id, Order_id, Order_qty FROM Sales_table FULL OUTER JOIN Order_table ON Sales_table.

Order_id = Order_table.Order_id;

The result of this query would be:

Cust_id | Order_id | Order_qty | 1 | 1 | 100 | 2 | 2 | 50 | 3 | 3 | 25 | 4 | 4 | 75 | NULL | 5 | 10 | NULL | 6 | 20 | NULL | 7 | 15

As you can see, the query returns seven rows, one for each order in either table. The orders that are not in the Sales_table have null values for the Cust_id column.

To find the mean of the order quantity, we need to sum up the order quantities and divide by the number of rows. In this case, the mean is  $(100 + 50 + 25 + 75 + 10 + 20 + 15) / 7 = 42.14$ . Rounding to one decimal place, we get 42.1 as the mean of the order quantity.

NEW QUESTION # 215

An employer needs to maintain adequate office staffing during the winter and wants to track storm data. Which of the following data collection methods should the employer use?

- A. Observations
- B. Web scraping
- C. Public databases
- D. Weather surveys

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 216

Given the table below:

□ Which of the following variables can be considered inconsistent, and how many distinct values should the variable have?

- A. Region, five
- B. Name, one
- C. Gender, two
- D. Level, three
- E. Code, four

Answer: C

Explanation:

The table provided shows an inconsistency in the 'Gender' column, which lists three distinct values: Male, Female, and College. This is inconsistent because 'College' is not a gender category. The 'Gender' column should only have two distinct values, typically 'Male' and 'Female', to accurately represent gender data. This error could be due to a data entry mistake or a misclassification during data collection.

In data analysis, it's crucial to ensure that categorical variables like gender are consistent and correctly classified, as this can significantly impact the analysis results. Data cleaning processes often involve identifying and correcting such inconsistencies to maintain the integrity of the data set.

* Data quality management principles emphasize the importance of consistency in data values, especially for categorical variables like gender<sup>1</sup>.

* Best practices in data cleaning include checking for and rectifying inconsistencies or misclassifications in data sets<sup>2</sup>.

* The importance of accurate data classification is highlighted in data analysis literature, as it directly affects the validity of the analysis results<sup>3</sup>.
