- A. Enforced CI verification
- B. Data justification
- C. Model characterization
- D. Configuration normalization
- E. Data synching

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

According to the ServiceNow Hardware Asset Management documentation, the Now Platform can create an asset automatically under the following conditions1:

Configuration normalization: When a configuration item (CI) is normalized, the platform creates a corresponding asset if it does not exist.

Enforced CI verification: When an asset is verified, the platform creates a corresponding CI if it does not exist.

Data synching: When an asset or a CI is updated, the platform synchronizes the data between the two records.

Model characterization: When a model is characterized, the platform creates an asset for each CI that belongs to that model.

Data justification is not a condition that triggers automatic asset creation. Data justification is a process of validating and correcting the data quality of assets and CIs2. References:

- A. IP address
- B. CPU
- C. Memory
- D. Operating system

- E. Cost

Answer: D

Explanation:

- * A configuration item (CI) is a record that represents an IT asset or service in the Configuration Management Database (CMDB)¹.
- * A CI tracks the operational and relationship information of the asset or service, such as its current status, location, owner, and dependencies¹.
- * A hardware asset is a physical component of an IT system, such as a laptop, server, or router².
- * A hardware asset attribute is a property or characteristic of the hardware asset, such as its model, serial number, or warranty².
- * Some hardware asset attributes are also part of the CI, such as IP address, CPU, operating system, and memory¹. These attributes reflect the operational state of the hardware asset and are relevant for configuration management purposes¹.
- * However, some hardware asset attributes are not part of the CI, such as cost². Cost is a financial information of the hardware asset that is tracked by the Asset Management application². Cost is not relevant for configuration management purposes and is not stored in the CMDB².
