NEW QUESTION # 18

What are the ways to designate data tables when Guided Application Creator (GAC)?

Choose 3 answers

- A. Upload an existing spreadsheet
- B. Upload an existing word processing document.
- C. Use a freeform database
- D. Upload an existing PDF
- E. Use an existing table on the platform
- F. Create a new table on the platform

Answer: A,D,F

Explanation:

The Guided Application Creator (GAC) is a tool that helps you create applications on the ServiceNow platform by guiding you through the steps of defining the data model, user interface, and logic. When using the GAC, you can designate data tables in three ways:

Upload an existing PDF: You can upload a PDF file that contains the table schema and sample data. The GAC will parse the PDF and create the table and fields based on the file content.

Create a new table on the platform: You can create a new table on the platform by specifying the table name, label, and description. You can also add fields, indexes, and relationships to the table using the GAC.

Upload an existing spreadsheet: You can upload a spreadsheet file that contains the table schema and sample data. The GAC will parse the spreadsheet and create the table and fields based on the file content.

The other options are not valid ways to designate data tables when using the GAC. You cannot upload an existing word processing document or use a freeform database. You can use an existing table on the platform, but you cannot designate it as a data table. You can only use it as a reference table for lookup fields.

NEW QUESTION # 19

Identify the way(s) an application can respond to an Event generated by the `gs.eventQueue()` method.

- a) Script Action
- b) Scheduled Script Execution (Scheduled Job)
- c) UI Policy
- d) Email Notification

- A. a and d
- B. a and c
- C. b and c
- D. c

Answer: A

Explanation:

"There are two possible ways to respond to events:

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which one of the following is true for a Script Include with a Protection Policy value of Protected?

- A. The Protection policy option can only be enabled by a user with the admin role
- B. The Protection Policy is applied only if the `glide.app.apply_protection` system property value is true
- C. Any user with the `protected_edit` role can see and edit the Script Include
- D. The Protection Policy is applied only if the application is downloaded from the ServiceNow App Store

Answer: D

Explanation:

https://docs.servicenow.com/bundle/rome-application-development/page/build/applications/concept/c_ScriptProt The following is true for a Script Include with a Protection Policy value of Protected:

* The Protection Policy is applied only if the application is downloaded from the ServiceNow App Store.

This is true because the Protection Policy is a feature that allows developers to protect their Script

* Includes from being viewed or modified by other users when they distribute their applications through the ServiceNow App Store. The Protection Policy is only enforced when the application is installed from the App Store, not when it is developed or tested on the instance.

The following are not true for a Script Include with a Protection Policy value of Protected:

* Any user with the protected_edit role can see and edit the Script Include. This is false because the protected_edit role is not related to the Protection Policy, but to the Access Control (ACL) rules. The protected_edit role allows users to edit protected fields on a table, such as the script field on the sys_script table, which stores the Business Rules. The Protection Policy does not use roles to control access to the Script Includes, but a cryptographic key that is generated when the application is published to the App Store.

* The Protection policy option can only be enabled by a user with the admin role. This is false because the Protection policy option can be enabled by any user who has the application_admin role for the scoped application that contains the Script Include. The application_admin role grants full access to the application development and administration within the scope of the application.

* The Protection Policy is applied only if the glide.app.apply_protection system property value is true.

This is false because the glide.app.apply_protection system property is not related to the Protection Policy, but to the Application Restricted Caller Access (ARCA) feature. The ARCA feature allows developers to restrict the access to the Script Includes from other applications based on the caller's scope. The glide.app.apply_protection system property determines whether the ARCA feature is enabled or disabled on the instance. NEW QUESTION # 21

Tables that extend a table do what?

- A. Sometimes inherit the parent's fields
- B. Automatically update the application scope
- C. Inherit the parent's fields
- D. Do not inherit the parent's fields

Answer: C

Explanation:

Tables that extend a table inherit the parent's fields. Extending a table means creating a child table that shares the same columns and business logic as the parent table. For example, the Incident table extends the Task table, which means that all fields defined on the Task table are also available on the Incident table. Extending a table allows for reusing existing fields and behaviors without duplicating them on multiple tables. Reference: Table extension and classes
