CompTIA Data+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q82-Q87):

NEW QUESTION # 82

Which of the following contains alphanumeric values?

- A. 0
- B. 13.6
- C. 10.1E
- D. A3J7

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 83

A data engineer is creating a database field to capture whether a customer likes vanilla ice cream. Which of the following data types is the best to capture this information?

- A. Boolean
- B. Integer
- C. Numeric
- D. Categorical

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth

When designing a database field to capture a binary preference, such as whether a customer likes vanilla ice cream, the most appropriate data type is:

Option B:Boolean

Rationale:A Boolean data type is used to represent binary values, typically TRUE or FALSE. In this context, it efficiently captures whether a customer likes (TRUE) or does not like (FALSE) vanilla ice cream.

Option A:Integer

Rationale:While integers represent whole numbers, using them to denote binary choices (e.g., 1 for "likes" and 0 for "dislikes") is less intuitive and can lead to ambiguity without proper context.

Option C:Categorical

Rationale:Categorical data types are used for fields that can take on one of a limited set of values, representing different categories. While "likes" and "dislikes" could be categories, a Boolean is more efficient for binary choices.

Option D:Numeric

Rationale:Numeric data types encompass both integers and floating-point numbers. Using a numeric type for a binary preference is unnecessary and could lead to data integrity issues.

NEW QUESTION # 84

A cereal manufacturer wants to determine whether the sugar content of its cereal has increased over the years. Which of the following is the appropriate descriptive statistic to use?

- A. Percent change
- B. Variance
- C. Mean
- D. Frequency

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 85

A data analyst has been asked to create an ad-hoc sales report for the Chief Executive Officer (CEO). Which of the following should be included in the report?

- A. Line-item SKU numbers.
- B. YTD total sales.
- C. The sales representatives' home addresses.
- D. The customers' first and last names.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The report for the CEO should include YTD total sales, as this will provide a high-level overview of the sales performance of the company and show how it is meeting its annual goals. The other options are not appropriate for the CEO, as they are either too detailed or irrelevant for the report. The sales representatives' home addresses, line-item SKU numbers, and customers' first and last names are not related to the sales performance and might compromise the privacy and security of the data. NEW QUESTION # 86

A data analyst needs to present the results of an online marketing campaign to the marketing manager. The manager wants to see the most important KPIs and measure the return on marketing investment. Which of the following should the data analyst use to BEST communicate this information to the manager?

- A. A real-time monitor that allows the manager to view performance the day the campaign was launched
- B. A spreadsheet of the raw data from all marketing campaigns and channels
- C. A self-service dashboard that allows the manager to look at the company's annual budget performance
- D. A summary with statistics, conclusions, and recommendations from the data analyst

Answer: D

Explanation:

The option that the data analyst should use to best communicate the information to the manager is a summary with statistics, conclusions, and recommendations from the data analyst. A summary is a concise and clear way of presenting the main findings and insights from the data analysis report. A summary should include relevant statistics that support the conclusions and recommendations from the data analyst. A summary should also highlight the most important KPIs and measure the return on marketing investment in relation to the objectives of the online marketing campaign. The other options are not as effective as using a summary to communicate the information to the manager, as they either provide too much or too little information or do not address the manager's needs or expectations. A real-time monitor may provide too much information that can be overwhelming or distracting for the manager who wants to see only the most important KPIs and measure the return on marketing investment. A self-service dashboard may provide too little information that can be insufficient or unclear for the manager who wants to see some guidance and interpretation from the data analyst. A spreadsheet of raw data may provide irrelevant or inaccurate information that can be confusing or misleading for the manager who wants to see some analysis and insights from the data analyst.
