ISTQB CTAL_TM_001 Prüfungsplan:

Thema	Einzelheiten
Thema 1	Managing the Product: This section of the exam measures the skills of a Test Analyst and focuses on the artefacts under test and the metrics that describe them. Examinees show how to define and collect test metrics to monitor quality and progress, estimate effort and resources for different test scopes, and organize defect management workflows that fit sequential, iterative, or hybrid lifecycles. The aim is to ensure test outcomes align with objectives and inform stakeholders through clear reporting, while using estimation techniques and defect data to guide ongoing test and process improvements.
Thema 2	Managing the Test Activities: This section of the exam measures the skills of a Test Manager and covers the end-to-end coordination of testing work. Candidates must demonstrate how to plan testing—defining objectives, scope, resources, schedule, and risk treatments—then how to monitor progress against those plans, control deviations through corrective actions, and conclude testing with completion reports, archival of testware, and lessons-learned sessions. The syllabus also explores tailoring test activities to project context, applying risk-based testing to focus effort where it matters most, shaping a coherent project test strategy, leading process-improvement initiatives, and selecting and managing test tools throughout their lifecycle.

Thema 3	Managing the Team: This section of the exam measures the skills of a Test Lead and addresses the human side of test management. Candidates must demonstrate how to identify the skills required for each project, assess and develop team competence, and apply motivating leadership practices. The syllabus also covers stakeholder relationship management, understanding interests and influence, articulating the business case for testing, and balancing cost-of-quality considerations to ensure testing is properly resourced, communicated, and valued within the wider project.

- B. Sequential
- C. Iterative
- D. Agile

217. Frage

You have been seeing a high number of rejections of defect reports. The developers are complaining that they do not understand what the problem is, even though they have been supplied with screenshots. You have checked a number of the 'problem' defect reports and have not found any information that is missing. The descriptions are very detailed and include all the necessary information in a long descriptive paragraph.

What change should you recommend that should help with the developer's problems?

- A. Instruct your team to make all defects high priority so the developers have more urgency behind making the fixes
- B. Separate out the steps to reproduce the defect in the description so it is clearer for the developers and easier to find
- C. With the problem reports highlight all the information and then walk through it with the developers so they see it is all there
- D. In addition to attaching the screenshots to the defect report, ask the testers to also email them to the developer

Antwort: B

Begründung:

* Context Analysis:

* Long descriptive paragraphs are difficult to parse, even if they contain all necessary information.

Developers need concise, structured information for quick understanding.

* Evaluation of Options:

* A. Instruct your team to make all defects high priority:

* Incorrect. Changing priority does not address the clarity issue in defect reports.

* B. Highlight all the information and walk through it with the developers:

* Incorrect. This is time-consuming and not scalable as a general solution.

* C. Email screenshots to developers in addition to attaching them to defect reports:

* Incorrect. Duplication of information does not solve the clarity problem.

* D. Separate out the steps to reproduce the defect in the description so it is clearer for the developers and easier to find:

* Correct. Structuring defect reports improves clarity and makes them easier to process.

* Syllabus Alignment:

* ISTQB recommends clear and concise defect reports to facilitate understanding and resolution (TM-2.3.5).
