HRCI Global Professional in Human Resource Sample Questions (Q129-Q134):

NEW QUESTION # 129

Which of the following is the primary benefit to a multinational organization of having one vendor for multiple outsourced functions?

- A. Reduction of conflicts between departments
- B. Customized local centers of excellence
- C. Streamlined billing for different services
- D. Simplified efforts to coordinate with the provider

Answer: D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

Using a single vendor for multiple services (e.g., payroll, recruitment, benefits administration) simplifies coordination, communication, and accountability. This helps:

- * Improve service consistency
- * Reduce administrative burden
- * Ensure contract efficiency across geographies

GPHR Study Guide Extract - Strategic Global Human Resources / Outsourcing Strategy:

"Engaging a single vendor for multiple HR services improves efficiency by reducing vendor management complexity. It streamlines communication and creates a more cohesive delivery model." Billing and department conflicts are secondary. Centers of excellence are internal strategies, not tied to vendor selection.

NEW QUESTION # 130

Which of the following are economic benefits that an employer can derive from having a strong employer brand? (Select TWO options.)

- A. Employee wellness
- B. Total rewards
- C. Increased retention
- D. Customer engagement
- E. Employee recognition

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

* Increased Retention- A strong employer brand attracts high-quality talent and fosters pride and loyalty, reducing turnover costs and improving organizational stability.

* Customer Engagement- Employees who are proud to work for a company become brand ambassadors, indirectly improving customer trust and brand loyalty.

GPHR Study Guide Extract - Talent Acquisition and Mobility / Employer Branding:

"Employer branding not only reduces recruitment and retention costs but also strengthens corporate reputation. Engaged employees contribute to customer satisfaction and organizational growth, reinforcing the employer brand in the market." Recognition and wellness are elements of internal programs, not direct economic drivers of employer branding.

NEW QUESTION # 131

Which of the following describes the global compensation and benefits strategy that would BEST align with an organization that has decided to pursue a polycentric staffing approach?

- A. Consistent local and global policies
- B. Consistent local policies, but may not be consistent across the organization globally
- C. Consistent policies within a region, but may not thoroughly consistent across regions
- D. Utilization of headquarters policies with little adaptation to local considerations

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 132

What is the greatest drawback of using a home-country-based balance sheet versus a headquarters-based balance sheet compensation approach for expatriates?

- A. Differences in assignee purchasing power from one host country to another
- B. Perceived inequity of treatment based on country of origin
- C. Equity between the expatriate and that of local compensation
- D. Expatriates' reluctance to be repatriated to their home countries

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

For example, a German and a Brazilian expatriate on the same assignment may receive very different compensation packages, simply due to home-country salary levels, despite doing the same job.

"The home-country balance sheet approach often results in perceived inequities across multinational teams, especially when compensation varies widely based on country of origin." Headquarters-based approach is more consistent across assignees, helping manage fairness and parity.

Which of the following elements of a competency model allows for clear feedback to employees regarding their career growth?
