Huawei HCSA-Presales-Storage V4.0 Sample Questions (Q176-Q181):

NEW QUESTION # 176
In SmartMulti-Tenant, a vStore is managed by only one tenant administrator, and vStDres are isolated from each other.

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 177
Which of the following statements are correct about quotas of object storage? (Select all that apply)

- A. Tenant quota: After the capacity for written data of a tenant is used up, no more data can be written by the tenant.
- B. Bucket quota: After the capacity for written data of a bucket is used up, no more data can be written to the bucket.
- C. An alarm or event is triggered when the number of resources reaches the limit.
- D. A quota is a method of controlling resource access.

Answer: A,B,C,D

Explanation:
In Huawei's object storage management (OceanStor Pacific), quotas are a critical administrative tool for resource governance.
Option C is correct as quotas serve as a fundamental method for controlling how much of the physical resource pool a specific entity (tenant or user) can access and consume.
Option A and D are correct because Huawei supports both Tenant-level and Bucket-level quotas. Once a Hard Quota limit is reached for a tenant or a specific bucket, the storage system will reject further write requests (PUT operations) to prevent exceeding the allocated budget. Option B is correct because the storage management system (DeviceManager or eSight) integrates with the quota system to trigger alarms when usage reaches predefined thresholds (such as 80% or 90%) or when the resource limit is reached, allowing administrators to take proactive measures like expanding the quota or cleaning up data.

NEW QUESTION # 178
With adaptive data locality rearrangement on writes, the data dispersion is calculated in real time when backup data is written and data distribution on disks is adjusted. During backup data recovery, only a few sequential reads are required, improving HDD recovery performance.

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: A

Explanation:
The statement accurately describes Huawei's Adaptive Data Locality Rearrangement technology used in OceanProtect systems. Backup data is often deduplicated and compressed, which traditionally leads to high data fragmentation (dispersion) across physical disks. When it comes time to recover that data, the disk heads on an HDD would normally have to perform thousands of "seek" operations to find the scattered blocks, resulting in very slow recovery speeds.
Huawei solves this by calculating the data dispersion in real-time during the write process. The system intelligently rearranges and groups related data blocks together on the disk media. Because the data is stored in a physically optimized, sequential manner, the recovery process can utilize sequential reads rather than random reads. This allows OceanProtect to deliver recovery performance that is significantly higher than traditional backup appliances, ensuring that businesses can restore services rapidly after an outage or data loss event.
