What are two ways the administrator can get this information?

- B. Create a new view in Identity Verification History, specifying Method.
- C. Open the Login Access Policies in Setup which shows how many users are using MFA.
- D. Run a session setting report, specifying login methods by user.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:
Salesforce Authenticator is an app that allows users to verify their identity when logging in to Salesforce using two-factor authentication (2FA). 2FA adds an extra layer of security by requiring users to enter a verification code or approve a notification on their mobile device after entering their username and password.

To look at how many users have successfully used Salesforce Authenticator since it was rolled out, an administrator can use two ways:

* A) Run a session setting report, specifying login methods by user.
A session setting report is a report that shows information about users' login sessions, such as login time, location, IP address, browser, platform, etc. A session setting report can also show the login methods used by users, such as password, verification code, or notification. By running a session setting report, specifying login methods by user, an administrator can see how many users have used Salesforce Authenticator to log in to Salesforce. * C) Create a new view in Identity Verification History, specifying Method.
Identity Verification History is a page that shows the history of identity verification attempts for each user in the org. Identity verification history includes information such as date, time, status, method, and IP address of each attempt. By creating a new view in Identity Verification History, specifying Method as a filter criterion, an administrator can see how many users have used Salesforce Authenticator to verify their identity when logging in to Salesforce. Universal Containers' support team wants to use Salesforce Knowledge to allow customers and the support team to have access to the product documentation. There are many different types of documentation with usage across the globe.

What feature should the administrator configure?

- A. Setup record types and page layouts.
- B. Create article types.
- C. Enable the Case Feed.
- D. Define data categories and visibility.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Data categories and visibility are features that allow you to organize and control access to your Salesforce Knowledge articles based on different topics or criteria. Data categories are logical groupings of articles that reflect your business needs and processes. You can create a data category group and assign it to one or more article types, and then create data categories and subcategories within that group. Data category visibility is a setting that determines which data categories users can access based on their profiles or permission sets. You can use data categories and visibility to provide relevant and appropriate product documentation to your customers and support team. References:
