ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester Advanced Level, Test Automation Engineering Sample Questions (Q24-Q29):

NEW QUESTION # 24

You have been asked to determine a TAS for a new release of a SUT, test should be automated wherever. The new release will consist of 5 new interfaces and an amendment to 3 existing interfaces. The new and amended interface will be delivered incrementally in 3 sprints, each lasting 2 weeks.

What would be the BEST Test Automation Solution (TAS) design in this scenario?

- A. Automate tests at one level only, System level. Use only the newly developed interfaces and do not create any customized interfaces/test hooks.
- B. Automate a test at once level, component level, Create customized interface/test hooks for this level where the interface has not yet been developed or amended.
- C. Automate tests at both Component and System Level. Only do this automation once every interface has been fully developed or amended and manual testing has completed successfully.
- D. Automate the tests at two levels, Component and System level. Create customized hooks at Component level for interface not yet developed or amended. Only use the newly developed or amended interfaces to test at System level.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 25

A project consists of distributed teams working in a 24-hour environment, where activities happen at all hours of the day. This project adopts a CI (Continuous Integration) process when developer check-in code and consists of automated activities that include generating a build and deploying it to a test environment.

Automated integration tests are run multiple times a day. The project has asked for a report containing the automation test results for every build, which must be available 24/7 to the project team.

Which of the following would be the BEST way to automatically provide this report?

- A. Store the execution result of the integration tests for the last build to a database (overwriting the results from the previous build), automatically create a test execution report for this build and send it via e-mail to the project team.
- B. Store the execution results of the integration tests for the last build to a database (without overwriting the results from the previous builds), use this database to automatically update a dashboard containing the build history and test results accessible to the project team.
- C. Store the code coverage results of the integration tests for the last build to a database (without overwriting the results from the previous builds). And automatically create a chart showing the trend in code coverage and send via email to the project team.
- D. Store the execution results of the integration tests for the last build to a database (without overwriting the results from the previous builds). Automatically create a test execution report for this build and send it via e-mail to the project team.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 26

Consider a TAS associated to dynamically changing software frequent releases. Your goal is to determine the amount of effort required to maintain the automated tests of the regression test suite for each new release of the SUT.

What is the MOST important metric to collect to achieve your goal?

- A. The code coverage achieved with the automated tests, for each new release of the SUT.
- B. The time it takes to execute all the automated tests, for each new release of the SUT.
- C. The number of automated tests requiring maintenance, for each new release of the SUT.
- D. The number of automated tests which fail because of a single software defect, for each new release of the SUT.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 27

You are reviewing the testability of your SUT.

Which of the following BEST refers to the characteristic of OBSERVABILITY?

- A. The ability to exercise the SUT by entering inputs, triggering events and invoking methods
- B. The ability of the SUT to prevent unauthorized access to its components or data.
- C. The ability of the SUT to perform its intended function for a specified period of time
- D. The ability to identify states, outputs, intermediate result and error messages in the SUT

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 28

Which of the following statements does NOT describe good practice for maintaining the TAS?

- A. The TAS must be under configuration management, along with the test suite, the testware artefacts and the test environment in which it runs
- B. The TAS must consist of components that can be easily replaced without affecting the overall behavior of the TAS itself
- C. The TAS must run in the development environment because development and programming knowledge are required for its maintainability
- D. The TAS must separate the test scripts from the environment in which it runs and from the associated harnesses and artefacts

Answer: C
