Adobe Real-Time CDP Business Practitioner Professional Sample Questions (Q40-Q45):

NEW QUESTION # 40

In the context of Adobe's Real-Time CDP, what defines an Identity Graph?

- A. It is a graph that maps the customer's journey across all channels
- B. It is a representation of how identities are linking customers information from different datasets
- C. It is a network diagram showing the relationships among various datasets.
- D. It is a data model illustrating transactional history of a customer

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Adobe Real-Time CDP, an Identity Graph is a structural representation of the relationships between different identity namespaces that belong to an individual. It is the engine that enables Identity Stitching.

When multiple datasets are ingested into the platform, they often contain different "fragments" of a customer's identity—for instance, one dataset might identify a user by their Email, while another uses a loyalty_id. The Identity Graph manages these connections, ensuring that all data associated with these various IDs is aggregated into a single, unified profile.

Option B describes a transaction log, not an identity structure. Option C is incorrect because the graph links identities (people), not the datasets themselves. Option D describes a "Customer Journey," which is a visualization of interactions over time; while the Identity Graph enables the tracking of that journey by linking the sessions, the graph itself is strictly the map of identity overlaps. By maintaining this graph, Real-Time CDP can resolve identities in real-time, allowing for consistent messaging even as a customer moves between anonymous browsing and authenticated states across different devices and platforms.

NEW QUESTION # 41

A customer needs to access profile data using /access/entities endpoint. What parameters are required to retrieve profile information?

- A. Data ingested TimeStamp field
- B. Entity Identity and Entity ID Namespace
- C. Profile Name and DOB field

Answer: B

Explanation:

To retrieve specific profile information programmatically via the Adobe Experience Platform Real-Time Customer Profile API, developers must use the /access/entities endpoint. Because the profile store is a NoSQL environment designed for high-speed lookups, the system requires specific coordinates to locate a profile fragment or a merged profile. These required parameters are the Entity Identity (the actual value of the ID, such as "user@example.com") and the Entity ID Namespace (the context of that ID, such as "email").

When making a GET request to this endpoint, the id and namespace parameters are mandatory because a single identity value might exist in multiple namespaces (e.g., the numeric string "12345" could be a CRM_ID for one person and a Loyalty_ID for another). Providing both ensures the API returns the correct entity. Option A is incorrect as timestamps are used for filtering or auditing but not for primary entity retrieval. Option C is incorrect because names and dates of birth are attributes within a profile, not the unique lookup keys used by the API's identity-based indexing system. Mastery of these parameters is essential for developers building custom integrations or troubleshooting profile data within the platform.

NEW QUESTION # 42

What components are critical for Profile Composition in Adobe RT-CDP? (Select two.)

- A. Audience segmentation at the edge.
- B. Attribute mapping across schemas.
- C. Data governance enforcement.
- D. Identity stitching from multiple sources.

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 43

Multiple records within the same XDM Individual Profile class-based dataset are all related to each other through the identity graph. At the time of profile assembly, what would be expected in terms of how those records will be merged together?

- A. Profile will keep only one fragment and ignore the other fragments completely.
- B. Profile will merge all fragments and overwrite previous data randomly.
- C. Profile will randomly pick a fragment as truth and use the other fragments in timestamp order to fill in the gaps.
- D. Profile will use the last processed fragment as truth and use the other fragments in timestamp order to fill in the gaps.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 44

What are guardrails for activating customer data to destinations? (Select two.)

- A. Requiring manual approval for all activations.
- B. Ensuring all activation workflows are real-time.
- C. Limiting activation to data with proper labels.
- D. Verifying compliance with data governance policies.

Answer: C,D
