ISTQB Certified Tester Advanced Level - Test Manager Sample Questions (Q48-Q53):

NEW QUESTION # 48

Which test management control option is most appropriate to adopt under these circumstances? 2 credits

- A. Reconsider the exit criteria and review the test plan in the context of the current situation.
- B. Arrange a meeting with the user community representatives to discuss the user interface.
- C. Introduce mandatory evening and weekend working to retrieve the 3 week slippage.
- D. Advise the user community regarding the reduced scope of requirements and the additional incremental delivery.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 49

Which classification information would be most useful to capture for newly identified defects? [2]

- A. The number of test steps in the test script that found the defect
- B. The system build that the defect was found in
- C. The priority that the business assigned to the project that the defect was found in
- D. The name of the configuration manager who built the system

Answer: B

Explanation:
Capturing the system build information for newly identified defects is crucial as it helps in tracking the defect back to a specific state of the software. This information is essential for developers to understand the context of the defect and for testers to manage regression testing effectively. It allows for precise identification of when the defect was introduced, aiding in quicker resolution and ensuring that similar issues can be prevented in future builds.

* Defect classification and prioritisation: ISTQB offers a standardised defect classification scheme The most useful classification information to capture for newly identified defects is the system build that the defect was found in. This is because the system build is the version of the software that is compiled, integrated, and tested together. By capturing the system build for each defect, the test team can track and manage the defects more effectively, and identify the root causes and impacts of the defects. The system build can also help to reproduce and verify the defects, and to measure the quality and progress of the software development. NEW QUESTION # 50

When, at a minimum, should project risks be re-evaluated? [1]

- A. During the creation of the test plan
- B. Prior to test case creation
- C. At the beginning of the test execution phase
- D. At major project milestones

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 51

Which of the following is likely to occur if reviewers do not have an adequate level of technical knowledge?
[1]

- A. The review is likely to be less efficient.
- B. There will be no impact as long as they have sufficient process knowledge.
- C. The review will be shorter because any technical aspect can be skipped.
- D. There will be no impact as long as they have sufficient business knowledge.

Answer: A

Explanation:

If reviewers do not have an adequate level of technical knowledge, they may not be able to identify and describe anomalies in the product or project under review1. They may also not be able to provide constructive feedback or suggestions for improvement2. This can result in a less efficient review, as the review objectives may not be met, the review process may take longer, or the review outcome may be of lower quality3.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer. Option A is incorrect because having sufficient business knowledge is not enough to perform a technical review, as business knowledge does not cover the technical aspects of the product or project4. Option B is incorrect because having sufficient process knowledge is not enough to perform a technical review, as process knowledge does not cover the technical aspects of the product or project4. Option D is incorrect because skipping any technical aspect can compromise the quality and completeness of the review, and may lead to defects or risks in the product or project5.
