Confluent Certified Developer for Apache Kafka Certification Examination Sample Questions (Q11-Q16):

NEW QUESTION # 11

You have a Kafka Connect cluster with multiple connectors.
One connector is not working as expected.
How can you find logs related to that specific connector?

- A. Change the log level to DEBUG to have connector context information in logs.
- B. Make no change, there is no way to find logs other than by stopping all the other connectors.
- C. Modify the log4j.properties file to enable connector context.
- D. Modify the log4j.properties file to add a dedicated log appender for the connector.

Answer: D

Explanation:

To isolate logs for a specific connector, you can configure a separate logger and appender in the Connect worker's log4j.properties file, using the connector's name as the logging context.

From Kafka Connect Logging Docs:

"Kafka Connect loggers use hierarchical logger names. You can configure per-connector log levels and output files by extending log4j.properties." A and C change verbosity but don't separate logs.

D is false; targeted logging is possible.

NEW QUESTION # 12

This schema excerpt is an example of which schema format?

```
package com.mycorp.mynamespace;
message SampleRecord {
  int32 Stock = 1;
  double Price = 2;
  string Product_Name = 3;
}
```

- A. JSON Schema
- B. Avro
- C. YAML
- D. Protobuf

Answer: D

Explanation:

This syntax is a clear match to Protocol Buffers (Protobuf). It defines a schema with fields, types, and tags, which is a format supported by Kafka when using Protobuf-based schema registry serialization.

From Confluent Schema Registry Docs:

"Kafka supports Protobuf serialization, where schemas are written in .proto files and include fields with tags." int32, double, and string are standard Protobuf types.

Avro uses JSON-style schema.

JSON Schema uses JSON object structure, not .proto.

YAML is unrelated.

NEW QUESTION # 13

What is returned by a producer.send() call in the Java API?

- A. Unit
- B. Future<ProducerRecord> object
- C. Future<RecordMetadata> object
- D. A Boolean indicating if the call succeeded

Answer: C

Explanation:

See <https://kafka.apache.org/21/javadoc/org/apache/kafka/clients/producer/KafkaProducer.html>

NEW QUESTION # 14

How does a consumer commit offsets in Kafka?

- A. It directly commits the offsets in Zookeeper
- B. It interacts with the Group Coordinator broker
- C. It directly sends a message to the `__consumer_offsets` topic

Answer: B

Explanation:

Consumers do not directly write to the `__consumer_offsets` topic, they instead interact with a broker that has been elected to manage that topic, which is the Group Coordinator broker

NEW QUESTION # 15

What are three built-in abstractions in the Kafka Streams DSL?

(Select three.)

- A. KStream
- B. GlobalKStream
- C. KTable
- D. GlobalKTable
- E. StreamTable

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

The Kafka Streams DSL provides three primary abstractions:

KStream: Represents an unbounded stream of records (append-only).

KTable: Represents a changelog stream where each key has the latest value (like a materialized view).

GlobalKTable: A fully replicated version of KTable across all stream instances, enabling global joins.

From Kafka Streams Developer Guide:

"Kafka Streams provides three core abstractions: KStream, KTable, and GlobalKTable, each serving different purposes in stream processing and joins." GlobalKStream and StreamTable do not exist in Kafka's API.
