ServiceNow Certified Application Developer-ServiceNow Sample Questions (Q127-Q132):

NEW QUESTION # 127

To see what scripts, reports, and other application artifacts will be in a published application:

- A. Examine the Application Files Related List in the application to be published
- B. Open the list of Update Sets for the instance
- C. Enter the name of the Application in the Global search field
- D. Open the artifact records individually to verify the value in the Application field

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 128

Which one of the following is true regarding Application Scope?

- A. Any developer can edit any application
- B. All applications are automatically part of the Global scope
- C. Developers can choose the prefix for a scope's namespace
- D. Applications downloaded from 3rd party ServiceNow application developers cannot have naming conflicts

Answer: D

Explanation:

https://docs.servicenow.com/bundle/rome-application-development/page/build/applications/concept/c\_ApplicationScope.html

The correct statement regarding Application Scope is that applications downloaded from 3rd party ServiceNow application developers cannot have naming conflicts. Application Scope is a feature that identifies and isolates applications and their related artifacts from other applications. Each scoped application has a unique namespace identifier that consists of a prefix and a scope name. This prevents cross-application name collisions and ensures that only authorized scripts can access or modify data in a scoped application.

NEW QUESTION # 129

(Which methods are used to activate application restricted caller access? Choose 2 options.)

- A. Request the HR Service Delivery or Security Incident Response applications
- B. Block all access requests to cross-scope resources
- C. Enable the Cross-Scope Access Override feature in the application settings
- D. Activate the Scoped Application Restricted Caller Access plugin

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

Restricted caller access is enabled through a platform capability delivered as a plugin. The direct method to activate it is to activate the Scoped Application Restricted Caller Access plugin, which turns on the restricted caller access behavior and supporting controls for cross-scope interactions. Additionally, certain ServiceNow applications, such as HR Service Delivery or Security Incident Response, may require this capability and, when requested/installed, can drive activation of the necessary supporting features as part of meeting that application's security model. That aligns to option B as an activation path tied to obtaining the applications that depend on the feature. Option A is not an activation method, it is a blanket security stance that does not represent how the feature is turned on in the platform. Option D is different functionality: Cross-Scope Access Override is a specific override mechanism for cross-scope calls and does not itself activate restricted caller access. The verified activation methods are the plugin activation and obtaining the applications that require it.

NEW QUESTION # 130

Which one of the following is the correct Link Type to select when creating a module that opens the Record Producer UI for a user rather than the ServiceNow form UI?

- A. URL (from Arguments:)
- B. HTML (from Arguments:)
- C. Content Page
- D. Script (from Arguments:)

Answer: A

Explanation:

In ServiceNow, a Record Producer is a specific type of catalog item that enables users to create task-based records through a simplified interface.

servicenow.com

To create a module that directs users to a Record Producer UI:

* Link Type Selection: Choose "URL (from Arguments:)" as the Link Type. This option allows you to specify a direct URL, enabling the module to open the desired Record Producer interface.

* URL Configuration: In the "Arguments" field, input the URL that points directly to the Record Producer. This URL typically follows the format:

/record_producer.do?sys_id=<sys_id_of_record_producer>

Replace <sys_id_of_record_producer> with the actual sys_id of the Record Producer you intend to open.

By configuring the module this way, users accessing it will be presented with the Record Producer's user-friendly interface, facilitating the creation of new records without navigating through the standard form UI.

NEW QUESTION # 131

When configuring a REST Message, the Endpoint is:

- A. Information about the format of the returned data
- B. The URI of the data to be accessed, queried, or modified
- C. The commands to the REST script to stop execution
- D. The response from the provider indicating there is no data to send back

Answer: B

Explanation:

When configuring a REST Message, the Endpoint is:

* The URI of the data to be accessed, queried, or modified. This is the correct answer because the Endpoint is the part of the REST Message that specifies the location and the resource of the REST provider. The Endpoint is composed of the base URL and the resource path, which can include query parameters or variables. For example, the Endpoint for a REST Message that retrieves the weather information for a city from a web service could be

<https://api.openweathermap.org/data/2.5/weather?q=London>.

The following are not correct definitions of the Endpoint when configuring a REST Message:

* The commands to the REST script to stop execution. This is not correct because the commands to the REST script to stop execution are not part of the REST Message, but of the Scripted REST API, which is a feature that allows users to create custom REST endpoints on the ServiceNow platform. The commands to the REST script to stop execution are methods of the RESTAPIResponse object, such as setStatuscode, setError, or complete.

* Information about the format of the returned data. This is not correct because the information about the format of the returned data is not part of the Endpoint, but of the HTTP headers or the Accept field of the REST Message. The HTTP headers or the Accept field can be used to specify the content type of the response, such as JSON, XML, or HTML.

* The response from the provider indicating there is no data to send back. This is not correct because the response from the provider indicating there is no data to send back is not part of the Endpoint, but of the HTTP status code or the response body of the REST Message. The HTTP status code or the response body can be used to indicate the result of the REST request, such as 200 OK, 404 Not Found, or 500 Internal Server Error.
