Google Associate Google Workspace Administrator Sample Questions (Q24-Q29):

NEW QUESTION # 24

Your company wants to start using Google Workspace for email. Your domain is verified through a third-party provider. You need to route the email to Google Workspace. What should you do?

- A. Change your domain's A record to point to Google's mail servers.

- B. Create a CNAME record that maps your domain to "gmail.com."
- C. Update your domain's MX records to the Google Workspace MX records provided in the setup instructions.
- D. Configure a forwarding rule in your current email system to redirect all messages to Gmail.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To route your email to Google Workspace, you need to update your domain's MX (Mail Exchange) records to point to Google's mail servers. This step ensures that emails sent to your domain are delivered to your Google Workspace Gmail accounts. The MX records are provided in the setup instructions during the Google Workspace configuration process.

NEW QUESTION # 25

Your company is streamlining workflows by creating custom applications for tasks like filing expense reports or requesting time off. You need to identify a Google Workspace solution to develop these applications. Your development team has only basic coding knowledge. What should you do?

- A. Direct employees to use Google Forms to collect data and create basic workflows.
- B. Enable AppSheet for your organization.
- C. Enable AppScript for your organization and allow employees to build add-ons to existing Workspace solutions.
- D. Enable Gemini for Workspace. Direct users to use generative AI across Gmail and Drive to simplify the submission of expense reports.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The core requirement is to create custom applications for workflows like expense reports and time off, with a development team that has "only basic coding knowledge." This strongly points to a "no-code" or "low-code" platform.

AppSheet is Google's no-code development platform, designed specifically for users (often referred to as "citizen developers") with basic or no coding knowledge to build custom mobile and web applications directly from data sources like Google Sheets, Forms, or other databases. It's ideal for automating business processes and creating custom workflows without traditional programming. Here's why the other options are less suitable:

A . Enable Gemini for Workspace. Direct users to use generative AI across Gmail and Drive to simplify the submission of expense reports. Gemini for Workspace (Google's AI assistant) can help with tasks like drafting emails, summarizing documents, and generating content within existing Workspace apps. While it can "simplify" aspects, it is not a platform for developing custom applications with structured workflows and data capture for tasks like full expense report submission or time-off requests. It enhances existing tools, it doesn't build new ones.

B . Direct employees to use Google Forms to collect data and create basic workflows. Google Forms is excellent for data collection and can be used for very simple workflows (e.g., collecting time-off requests). However, it lacks the robust functionality needed for complex custom applications, such as managing approvals, displaying data in different views, offline access, or integrating with other systems, without significant manual effort or custom scripting. The term "custom applications" suggests something more sophisticated than just a form.

D . Enable AppScript for your organization and allow employees to build add-ons to existing Workspace solutions. Google Apps Script allows for powerful automation and the creation of custom add-ons for Google Workspace applications (Gmail, Sheets, Docs). However, Apps Script requires knowledge of JavaScript. While it's relatively "basic coding" compared to full-stack development, it's still coding. The question emphasizes "only basic coding knowledge" and the need for a solution to develop applications, implying a more visual or declarative approach than coding from scratch. AppSheet is generally considered easier for those with "basic coding knowledge" or even no coding knowledge, making it a better fit for rapid application development by non-developers.

Reference from Google Workspace Administrator:

AppSheet: No-code App Development | Google Cloud: This is the primary resource for AppSheet, explicitly stating its purpose for "no-code app development" and enabling "everyone in your organization to build and extend applications without coding." It highlights use cases for automating business processes like order approvals (similar to expense reports/time off).

Reference:

Google AppSheet | Build apps with no code: Further reiterates that AppSheet helps "build powerful applications and automations that boost productivity. No coding required." It also mentions integration with Google Workspace, including Google Sheets and Forms as data sources.

Quick start: Build your first app and automation using Google Forms - AppSheet Help: This resource demonstrates how AppSheet can take data from Google Forms and build an app with automation (e.g., email notifications for approvals), showcasing its capability for workflows like expense reports.

NEW QUESTION # 26

An employee is leaving your company and has numerous files stored in My Drive. Their manager wants to retain access to these files. You need to offboard the departing employee's Google Workspace account while ensuring that the manager can still access the files while following Google-recommended practices. What should you do?

- A. Use Google Vault to establish a retention policy for the organizational unit (OU) of the departing employee. Assign the Google Archived User license.
- B. Download the departing employee's Drive data by using Google Takeout. Upload the data to the manager's Drive before deleting the departing employee's Google Workspace account.
- C. Transfer ownership of the departing employee's files to the manager during the user deletion process.
- D. Instruct the departing employee to share their My Drive folder with the manager before leaving. Delete the Google Workspace account on the departing employee's last day.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Transferring ownership of the departing employee's files to the manager ensures that the manager retains access to all the files, including those stored in My Drive, without requiring additional steps like downloading or sharing files. This method follows Google-recommended practices and ensures that the files remain under proper management even after the employee's account is deleted. This process can be done efficiently during the offboarding process to ensure continuity of access.

NEW QUESTION # 27

Per regulatory requirements, your company is required to keep the data of employees located in Germany within Europe and the data of employees located in the US within the US. The employees in Germany are in a separate organizational unit (OU) than employees in the US. You need to ensure that where employee data is stored is in compliance with the location regulations. What should you do?

- A. Create two Groups. Assign employees into the Germany or US Group based on their location. Use Google Drive trust rules to prevent sharing between the Groups.
- B. Navigate to the Data Regions function in the Admin console. Select the Europe region for employees in Germany, and select the US region for US employees.
- C. Navigate to the Data Regions function in the Admin console. Select 'No preference.'
- D. Instruct employees to use Drive for desktop to keep documents on their corporate computers.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Using the Data Regions function in the Google Admin console, you can specify where data is stored for different organizational units (OUs) based on their geographical location. This ensures that employee data for those in Germany is stored within Europe, while data for US employees is stored within the US, meeting the regulatory requirements for data locality. This approach automates compliance and eliminates the need for manual tracking or additional configurations.

NEW QUESTION # 28

You manage Chrome Enterprise browsers for your large organization. You want to ensure that specific extensions are automatically installed on all managed Chrome Enterprise browsers. What should you do?

- A. Force-install the extensions through Chrome browser policies.
- B. Allowlist the specific Chrome browser extensions.
- C. Configure a script to deploy the extensions upon user login.
- D. Publish the extensions in the Chrome Web Store.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Using Chrome browser policies, you can force-install specific extensions on all managed Chrome Enterprise browsers. This ensures that the desired extensions are automatically installed on users' browsers without requiring manual installation. This approach is the most efficient and scalable solution for managing extensions across a large organization.
