ISACA Certified in the Governance of Enterprise IT Exam Sample Questions (Q219-Q224):

NEW QUESTION # 219

The CIO of a large enterprise has taken the necessary steps to align IT objectives with business objectives. What is the BEST way for the CIO to ensure these objectives are delivered effectively by IT staff?

- A. Include CIO sign-off of the objectives as part of the IT strategic plan.
- B. Map the IT objectives to an industry-accepted framework.
- C. Include the IT objectives in staff performance plans.
- D. Enhance the budget for training based on the IT objectives.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 220

In which of the following components of the COSO ERM are the policies and procedures established and implemented to help ensure that the risk responses are effectively carried out?

- A. Control activity
- B. Risk response
- C. Event identification
- D. Risk assessment

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 221

Which of the following is the BEST indication that an implementation plan for a new governance initiative will be successful?

- A. The plan is designed to engage employees across the enterprise.
- B. The plan assigns responsibility for completing milestones.
- C. Staff have been trained on the new initiative.
- D. External consultants created the plan.

Answer: A

Explanation:

* This is because employee engagement is a key factor for the success of any change initiative, especially one that involves governance. Employee engagement refers to the degree of commitment, involvement, and ownership that employees have toward the organization and its goals¹. By designing the implementation plan to engage employees across the enterprise, the organization can:

* Communicate the vision, purpose, and benefits of the new governance initiative to employees²

* Solicit feedback and suggestions from employees on how to implement the new governance initiative effectively²

* Address any concerns or resistance that employees may have toward the new governance initiative²

* Empower and motivate employees to participate in and support the new governance initiative²

* Foster a culture of collaboration, learning, and innovation among employees² Designing the implementation plan to engage employees across the enterprise can help to ensure that the new governance initiative is understood, accepted, and adopted by all stakeholders, and that it delivers the desired outcomes and value.

The other options, staff have been trained on the new initiative, external consultants created the plan, and the plan assigns responsibility for completing milestones are not as indicative as the plan is designed to engage employees across the enterprise for the success of the implementation plan for a new governance initiative.

They are more related to the execution and management of the implementation plan, rather than its design and alignment. They may also not be sufficient or effective for ensuring the success of the implementation plan, as they may not address the human and behavioral aspects of change, such as awareness, understanding, involvement, commitment, and ownership³. NEW QUESTION # 222

Right-to-audit clauses are intended to ensure the vendor:

- A. optimizes IT operations for service delivery
- B. aligns staff skill sets adequately.
- C. addresses compliance requirements.
- D. maintains adequate budget for risk management.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Right-to-audit clauses are intended to ensure the vendor addresses compliance requirements, which means that the vendor follows the laws, regulations, standards, and contractual obligations that apply to their business activities and operations. Right-to-audit clauses give the contracting party the right to access and review the records, processes, or activities of the vendor to verify that they are complying with the relevant compliance requirements and that they are meeting the expectations and responsibilities outlined in the contract. Right-to-audit clauses also help to identify and mitigate any compliance risks or issues that may arise from the vendor's performance or conduct, and to enforce any corrective actions or remedies if needed.

NEW QUESTION # 223

Which of the following is MOST important for an IT strategy committee to ensure before initiating the development of an IT strategic plan?

- A. Committee members are independent from business units.
- B. Committee members are apprised of business needs
- C. IT initiatives are fully supported by the business.
- D. A risk assessment has been conducted.

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the CGEIT exam guide, the IT strategy committee should ensure that the IT strategic plan is aligned with the business needs and goals of the enterprise. Therefore, before initiating the development of an IT strategic plan, the committee members should be apprised of the business needs and understand the expectations and requirements of the stakeholders.
