VMware Advanced VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0 Operation Sample Questions (Q311-Q316):

NEW QUESTION # 311

What is a key operational distinction between the Log Insight Agent and the Log Insight Importer?

- A. The Agent requires a license; the Importer is free.
- B. The Agent is designed for continuous, real-time collection (tailing) and persists across reboots. The Importer is a transient, manual tool designed for one-time batch ingestion of closed files and then terminates.
- C. The Agent runs on Linux; the Importer runs only on Windows.
- D. The Agent sends data to VCF Operations; the Importer sends data to vCenter.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 312

An operator observes that a specific Cloud Proxy (cp-tokyo-01) is offline in the VCF Operations UI. A network engineer provides the current firewall configuration between the Tokyo site and the central data center.

```
Firewall Rule - Edge-Tokyo to Core-DC
Source IP Dest IP Port/Protocol Action
```

```
-----
10.20.1.5 (CP) 192.168.10.10 443 (TCP) ALLOW
10.20.1.5 (CP) 192.168.10.11 443 (TCP) ALLOW
10.20.1.5 (CP) 192.168.10.12 80 (TCP) DENY
10.20.1.5 (CP) 192.168.10.10 123 (UDP) ALLOW
```

```
VCF Operations Cluster Info (Core-DC)
```

```
Load Balancer VIP: 192.168.10.100

```
Nodes: 192.168.10.10, 10.11, 10.12
```

Based on the configuration, what is preventing the Cloud Proxy from successfully connecting and staying online?

- A. NTP (Port 123) is only allowed to one node; it must be open to all nodes for time synchronization.
- B. The Cloud Proxy is trying to initiate a connection over Port 22 (SSH), which is not listed in the rules.
- C. Port 80 is denied; the Cloud Proxy requires port 80 for initial certificate exchange and bootstrap.
- D. The firewall rules allow traffic to individual nodes but do not explicitly allow traffic to the Cluster Load Balancer VIP (192.168.10.100) on port 443.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 313

A developer is troubleshooting a complex application error. They found one specific log message indicating the crash. Now, they want to see the logs that occurred on the same host immediately before and after that specific event to understand the context.

Which feature provides this "Time-Adjacent" view?

- A. Right-click the event and select "Filter by Hostname".
- B. Copy the timestamp and manually search for it.
- C. "View Context" (or View Surrounding Events). By clicking the context icon (often looks like a list or document) next to the specific log entry, the system opens a dedicated view showing the sequential stream of logs from that specific source around the timestamp of the event, regardless of keywords.
- D. Use the "Cluster Events" dashboard.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 314

Which architectural feature allows VCF Automation to deploy the same Cloud Template (Blueprint) to AWS, Azure, and vSphere without changing the code?

- A. The "Code Stream" pipeline.
- B. Cloud Agnostic Resources. The architecture uses an abstraction layer (e.g., Cloud.Machine resource type) which decouples the intent (I need a VM) from the implementation (EC2 vs. vSphere VM). At runtime, the Placement Engine resolves this generic resource to a specific endpoint based on the project's Cloud Zone assignments and mappings.
- C. Custom scripts for each cloud.
- D. Hardcoded IP addresses.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 315

A Security Auditor wants to review all logs where a specific field user_id is present in the log entry, regardless of what the actual user ID value is. This is to identify all authenticated activities.

Which filter operator supports this requirement?

- A. is not null (This is SQL syntax, not typically the UI label in Log Insight).

- B. starts with "user"
- C. contains "8"
- D. exists. The administrator selects the field user_id and chooses the operator exists. This filters the view to show only those log events where the parser successfully extracted a value for that field.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 316
