EC-Council Certified Incident Handler (ECIH v2) exam is designed to provide hands-on experience and knowledge to handle various types of incidents, including network security incidents, malicious code incidents, and insider attack threats. 212-89 exam is conducted by the International Council of E-Commerce Consultants (EC-Council), which is a leading provider of information security certifications.

The ECIH v2 certification is an important credential for IT security professionals who are involved in incident handling and response. EC Council Certified Incident Handler (ECIH v3) certification demonstrates that the candidate has the knowledge, skills, and abilities to effectively manage and respond to security incidents. It also provides employers with a way to evaluate the skills of their IT security staff, and to ensure that they have the necessary expertise to protect their organization's critical assets.

Prerequisites

The target candidates for the EC-Council 212-89 Exam are the risk assessment administrators, penetration testers, cyber forensic investigators, incident handlers, venerability assessment auditors, firewall administrators, system engineers, network managers, system administrators, IT managers, and other IT professionals looking to gain validation for their skills in incident handling & response.

Please note that you are required to fulfill one prerequisite before going for the exam. You need to complete the ECIH training course, which can be taken as the instructor-led option, academia studying, or online learning. Those candidates who opt for self-study must possess at least one year of practical work experience in the domain of information security. Also, you are required to submit a completed eligibility form to get approval to take the test.

EC-COUNCIL EC Council Certified Incident Handler (ECIH v3) Sample Questions (Q224-Q229):

NEW QUESTION # 224
Michael, a digital forensic responder, enters a server room after a suspected data breach. He ensures all individuals not involved in the investigation are escorted out, avoids altering any device configurations, and isolates the server from the network without powering it down. What is the main goal of Michael's actions?

- A. Creating a chain of custody
- B. Securing and evaluating the crime scene
- C. Cloning the affected server
- D. Collecting volatile memory

Answer: B

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation (ECIH-aligned):
Michael's actions reflect crime scene control, a foundational first-response principle in the ECIH forensic readiness module. Securing the area, preventing unauthorized access, and avoiding system changes preserve evidence integrity.
Option C is correct because his primary objective is to secure and evaluate the digital crime scene before evidence collection begins.
ECIH stresses that scene control prevents contamination, tampering, and accidental evidence destruction.
Options A, B, and D may follow but are not the immediate objective.

NEW QUESTION # 225
Mr. Smith is a lead incident responder of a small financial enterprise having few branches in Australi a. Recently, the company suffered a massive attack losing USD 5 million through an inter-banking system. After in-depth investigation on the case, it was found out that the incident occurred because 6 months ago the attackers penetrated the network through a minor vulnerability and maintained the access without any user being aware of it. Then, he tried to delete users' fingerprints and performed a lateral movement to the computer of a person with privileges in the inter-banking system.
Finally, the attacker gained access and did fraudulent transactions.
Based on the above scenario, identify the most accurate kind of attack.

- A. Ransomware attack
- B. APT attack
- C. Phishing
- D. Denial-of-service attack

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 226

A regional healthcare provider leveraging a platform-as-a-service (PaaS) cloud model detects suspicious activity involving unauthorized access to patient records. During the investigation, the incident response team attempts to retrieve system logs from virtual machines used during the breach. However, they realize that crucial log files are unavailable, as the short-lived instances were automatically terminated shortly after the event. This hampers their ability to reconstruct a complete activity trail and trace the attacker's movements.

Which core cloud forensic challenge does this situation most likely reflect?

- A. Metadata misalignment resulting from inconsistent log normalization.
- B. Limited log access from containerized workloads.
- C. Log encryption hindered by poor key management practices.
- D. Evaporation of logs due to volatile storage.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation (ECIH-aligned):
This scenario illustrates the cloud forensic challenge known as log evaporation, which occurs when logs are stored in volatile or short-lived environments and are lost when instances terminate. The ECIH Cloud Security module highlights this as a major obstacle in cloud investigations.
Option C is correct because the automatic termination of PaaS instances resulted in the loss of critical logs, preventing reconstruction of attacker activity.
Options A, B, and D describe different logging issues not reflected here.
ECIH stresses the importance of centralized, persistent logging to prevent log evaporation. This scenario directly reflects the consequences of failing to implement such controls, making Option C correct.

NEW QUESTION # 227

A distributed Denial of Service (DDoS) attack is a more common type of DoS Attack, where a single system is targeted by a large number of infected machines over the Internet. In a DDoS attack, attackers first infect multiple systems which are known as:

- A. Trojans
- B. Zombies
- C. Worms
- D. Spyware

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 228

While analyzing a file, Ryan discovered that an attacker used an anti-forensics method, wherein the attacker embedded a hidden message inside an image file.
What type of method is this?

- A. Password protection
- B. Golden ticket
- C. Program packers
- D. Steganography

Answer: D
