NEW QUESTION #151

Which of the following explains why standardization of data field names is important to master data management concepts?

- A. The quality of the data is consistent and improved.
- B. The data is decompressed.
- C. The colors in data visualization are enhanced.
- D. The data looks more appealing.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation:

Master Data Management (MDM) involves creating a single, consistent, and accurate set of identifiers and extended attributes for the organization's critical data. Standardizing data field names plays a pivotal role in achieving this consistency.

- * Consistent and Improved Data Quality: Standardized field names ensure that data from different sources can be integrated seamlessly, reducing redundancy and discrepancies. This uniformity enhances data quality by making it easier to maintain, interpret, and manage data across the organization.
- * Data Appearance: While standardization contributes to data consistency, it doesn't inherently affect the visual appeal of the data.
- * Visualization Colors: The colors used in data visualization are determined by visualization tools and are not influenced by the naming conventions of data fields.
- * Data Compression: Standardizing field names does not relate to data compression or decompression processes.

 Thus, standardizing data field names is essential for ensuring consistent and improved data quality within Master Data Management practices.

NEW QUESTION # 152

A data analyst is asked to create a sales report for the second-quarter 2020 board meeting, which will include a review of the business's performance through the second quarter. The board meeting will be held on July 15, 2020, after the numbers are finalized. Which of the following report types should the data analyst create?

- A. Dynamic
- B. Self-service
- C. Real-time
- D. Static

Answer: D

Explanation:

A dynamic report is a type of report that shows data that changes or updates automatically based on certain criteria or parameters. A dynamic report can allow users to interact with the data, filter it, drill down into it, or visualize it in different ways. A dynamic report is suitable for situations where the data changes frequently or where real-time or near-real-time data is needed for decision making or analysis. In this case, the data analyst is asked to create a sales report for the second-quarter 2020 board meeting, which will include a review of the business's performance through the second quarter. The board meeting will be held on July 15, 2020, after the numbers are finalized. This means that the data analyst does not need to show real-time or dynamic data, but rather a fixed and accurate view of the sales data for the second quarter. Therefore, a static report would be the best way to meet this stakeholder requirement. Therefore, the correct answer is A. NEW QUESTION # 153

A cereal manufacturer wants to determine whether the sugar content of its cereal has increased over the years. Which of the following is the appropriate descriptive statistic to use?

- A. Percent change
- B. Mean
- C. Variance

• D. Frequency

Answer: A

Explanation:

This is because percent change is a type of descriptive statistic that measures the relative change or difference of a variable over time, such as the sugar content of cereal over years in this case. Percent change can be used to determine whether the sugar content of cereal has increased over years by comparing the initial and final values of the sugar content, as well as calculating the ratio or proportion of the change. For example, percent change can be used to determine whether the sugar content of cereal has increased over years by finding out how much more (or less) sugar there is in cereal now than before, as well as expressing it as a fraction or a percentage of the original sugar content. The other descriptive statistics are not appropriate to use to determine whether the sugar content of cereal has increased over years. Here is why:

* Frequency is a type of descriptive statistic that measures how often or how likely a value or an event occurs in a data set, such as how many times a certain sugar content appears in cereal in this case.

Frequency does not measure the relative change or difference of a variable over time, but rather measures the occurrence or chance of a variable at a given time.

- * Variance is a type of descriptive statistic that measures how much the values in a data set vary or deviate from the mean or average of the data set, such as how much variation there is in sugar content among different cereals in this case. Variance does not measure the relative change or difference of a variable over time, but rather measures the dispersion or spread of a variable at a given time.
- * Mean is a type of descriptive statistic that measures the average value or central tendency of a data set, such as what is the typical sugar content of cereal in this case. Mean does not measure the relative change or difference of a variable over time, but rather measures the summary or representation of a variable at a given time.

Answer: B

Microsoft Power BI is a business analytics service that provides interactive visualizations and business intelligence capabilities.
