NLN Nursing Entrance Exam (Math, Science and Verbal) Sample Questions (Q92-Q97):

NEW QUESTION # 92

Word Knowledge

The word "assist" most nearly means:

- A. Ignore
- B. Prevent
- C. Delay
- D. Help

Answer: D

Explanation:

"Assist" means to help or support. Option B is the correct synonym. The remaining options describe actions that oppose assistance.

NEX verbal questions frequently use healthcare-related vocabulary like assist, administer, and support.

NEW QUESTION # 93

You are designing a new community public health program to reduce the incidence of cardiovascular diseases (CVD) in your county. Which of the following programs would likely result in the best overall outcome?

- A. Disease education (e.g., symptoms, causes, and treatment)
- B. Health promotion activities (e.g., nutrition, exercise, stress management classes)
- C. Disease prevention (e.g., cholesterol screenings)
- D. Disease prevention and health promotion

Answer: D

Explanation:

Combining disease prevention and health promotion provides the greatest overall impact on reducing cardiovascular disease. Prevention identifies and manages risk factors early, while health promotion encourages long-term lifestyle changes such as healthy eating, exercise, and stress reduction. Education alone increases awareness but may not change behavior. Screening without lifestyle intervention has limited long-term effectiveness. The NEX Science exam emphasizes population health strategies, making integrated prevention and promotion the most effective approach.

NEW QUESTION # 94

What stimulates gustatory (taste) cells?

- A. Substances in solution
- B. Photons of light
- C. Movement of otoliths
- D. Deep pressure changes

Answer: A

Explanation:

Gustatory cells are sensory receptors responsible for taste and are located primarily in taste buds on the tongue. These cells are stimulated by chemical substances that are dissolved in saliva. When food dissolves in saliva, the dissolved molecules bind to receptors on gustatory cells, triggering nerve impulses that are interpreted by the brain as taste. Movement of otoliths is related to balance in the inner ear, deep pressure changes stimulate mechanoreceptors, and photons of light stimulate photoreceptors in the eye. The NEX Science exam frequently tests sensory physiology by asking students to match receptors with the correct type of stimulus. Recognizing that taste is a chemical sense dependent on substances in solution is fundamental.

NEW QUESTION # 95

Word Knowledge

The word "minimize" most nearly means:

- A. Increase
- B. Reduce
- C. Balance
- D. Measure

Answer: B

Explanation:

Minimize means to reduce something to the smallest amount possible. Option C is the correct synonym. Understanding reduction-related vocabulary is important for NEX verbal success.

NEW QUESTION # 96

You are staining bacterial samples for identification and viewing them under a microscope.

Which bacterial shape do you observe in the sample?

- A. Bacilli
- B. Spirochetes
- C. Vibrios
- D. Cocci

Answer: A

Explanation:

This question tests knowledge of bacterial morphology, which is commonly assessed on the NEX Science exam. Bacteria are often classified based on their shape, which helps in identification and diagnosis. The image shows elongated, rod-shaped bacteria. This shape is characteristic of bacilli. Bacilli are cylindrical or rod-like and are commonly found in many bacterial species, including Escherichia coli and Bacillus anthracis.

Cocci are spherical in shape, spirochetes are long and spiral-shaped, and vibrios have a curved, comma-like appearance. None of these shapes match the straight rod-like structures shown in the image. Identifying bacterial shape is an important first step in microbiology before further tests such as Gram staining or biochemical analysis are performed. The NEX exam frequently uses images or descriptions to assess whether students can correctly distinguish between cocci, bacilli, spirilla/spirochetes, and vibrios based on visual characteristics. Recognizing bacilli as rod-shaped bacteria is a key foundational concept.
