NEW QUESTION # 35

Which Aruba CX switch series is recommended for high-speed aggregation in large-scale enterprise networks?

- A. Aruba CX 6300
- B. Aruba CX 4100i
- C. Aruba CX 6200
- D. Aruba CX 8325

Answer: D

Explanation:

The CX 8325 provides 100GbE uplinks, VXLAN/EVPN support, and advanced Layer 3 routing, making it a powerful option for enterprise aggregation.

NEW QUESTION # 36

You are implementing a directly connected routing plan using OSPF on an HPE Aruba Networking CX 6200 and ISP router. What would be the impact of changing the network type to point-to-point?

- A. A larger number of OSPF routes would be supported
- B. It will increase the number of LSA type-3 advertisements
- C. It will reduce the number of LSA type-2 advertisements
- D. The configuration would remain as the default

Answer: C

Explanation:

When configuring OSPF on a point-to-point network type (typically a direct link between two routers), OSPF treats the link as a broadcast-less point-to-point segment.

This reduces unnecessary OSPF overhead by eliminating the need for:

DR/BDR elections (which generate LSA Type 2 advertisements for broadcast multi-access networks).

Thus, changing network type to point-to-point reduces the number of LSA Type-2 advertisements, which are used to describe the network segment in multi-access environments.

No impact on number of routes (LSA Type-3 is about inter-area routes).

The default is usually broadcast or point-to-multipoint depending on interface.
