dbt Labs dbt Analytics Engineering Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q351-Q356):

NEW QUESTION # 351

You've added new tests but notice they aren't failing even though you've intentionally introduced errors. What's a LIKELY cause?

- A. The tests are defined in seeds.csv files.

- B. Your tests have incorrect severity thresholds.
- C. You haven't compiled your project since writing the new tests.
- D. Your dbt project has multiple targets configured.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Compilation is necessary for new tests to be recognized. Others are less likely, though severity thresholds could be a factor if misconfigured.

NEW QUESTION # 352

You encounter a runtime error: "Column 'order_date' not found in the target relation". You examine your model and see:SQL

- A. Verify that your Jinja templating in other models isn't interfering with column names.
- B. Review the fct_orders model's SQL logic to see if it unintentionally removes or renames the 'order_date' column.
- C. Ensure there are no downstream models that could be altering the 'fct_orders' table.
- D. Check if the fct_orders model or source actually includes an 'order_date' column.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Start with the basics! This error typically indicates a schema mismatch between your assumption and the actual data structure.

NEW QUESTION # 353

You're tasked with adding functionality to your dbt project for:

- A. Calculating complex financial metrics specific to your industry
- B. Auditing data quality with comprehensive anomaly detection tests.
- C. Handling slowly changing dimensions.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Data quality and SCD management are common needs addressed by many dbt packages. Financial metrics tend to be more domain-specific, and you might need custom logic.

NEW QUESTION # 354

You write a macro to dynamically create a filter string and apply it within a model as follows:SQL

- A. The database doesn't support comparison of the data type of the region column with a string value.
- B. You cannot dynamically apply filters using Jinja; they must be hardcoded in your model's SQL.
- C. The generate_filter macro should be placed within a separate macros directory, not inline in the model.
- D. The macro templating incorrectly nests single and double quotes.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Nesting quotes within Jinja can be tricky. Review the macro's output for unintended formatting. The others are unlikely to cause this specific error.

NEW QUESTION # 355

You're working in a large, enterprise-level dbt deployment. Which aspect of using dbt documentation commands could become especially important in this context?

- A. Optimizing the dbt docs generate process for very large projects to minimize execution time.
- B. All of the above.
- C. Version-controlling your documentation changes alongside your project code.

- D. Developing strict documentation contribution guidelines for multiple teams and collaborators.

Answer: B

Explanation:

All aspects become increasingly important in larger projects: A: Optimization matters when many models create more complex documentation. B: Tracking documentation history alongside code is crucial for governance. C: Clear guidelines are essential with many contributors.
