Note: The exam demands a solid understanding of concepts, but also requires the ability to use that knowledge in real-world scenarios.

1.1.1 Why is the CompTIA DataSys+ DS0-001 Important?

In our digital age, every organization depends heavily on data. Businesses use data to gain insights, make strategic decisions, and drive growth. However, this data needs to be managed properly. It needs to be stored efficiently, protected from threats, and used effectively.

This is where a professional with a CompTIA DataSys+ DS0-001 certification comes in. They have proven their ability to handle these tasks. They understand database structures, can write and modify SQL code, can deploy and maintain databases, understand the importance of data and database security, and have a clear plan for business continuity in case of a disaster.

For example, consider a retail business that collects customer data through its e-commerce platform. A professional with a CompTIA DataSys+ DS0-001 certification could set up and manage the databases that store this information.

They could write SQL code to query the data, providing insights into customer behavior. They could also secure the database, protecting the company and its customers from data breaches.

Furthermore, they would have a disaster recovery plan in place to ensure the business can quickly recover from any unexpected events.

CompTIA DataSys+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q80-Q85):

NEW QUESTION # 80

Which of the following cloud delivery models has the most limitations for user access to the underlying infrastructure?

- A. IaaS
- B. PaaS
- C. DBaaS
- D. SaaS

Answer: D

Explanation:

Software as a Service (SaaS) provides applications managed by the provider, offering the least access to the underlying infrastructure for users.

NEW QUESTION # 81

Which of the following scripts would set the database recovery model for sys.database?

- A.
- B.
- C.
- D.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The script that would set the database recovery model for sys.database is option A. This script uses the ALTER DATABASE statement to modify the recovery model of the sys.database to full with no wait. The other options either have syntax errors, use incorrect keywords, or do not specify the recovery model correctly.

NEW QUESTION # 82

A company is launching a proof-of-concept, cloud-based application. One of the requirements is to select a database engine that will allow administrators to perform quick and simple queries on unstructured data.

Which of the following would be best suited for this task?

- A. MonogODB
- B. MS SQL
- C. Graph database
- D. Oracle

Answer: A

Explanation:

The best suited database engine for this task is MongoDB. MongoDB is a type of non-relational database that stores data as documents in JSON-like format. MongoDB allows administrators to perform quick and simple queries on unstructured data, such as text, images, videos, or social media posts, without requiring a predefined schema or complex joins. MongoDB also supports cloud-based deployment, scalability, and high availability. The other options are either relational databases that require a fixed schema and structure for data, or specialized databases that are designed for specific purposes, such as graph databases for storing and analyzing network data. NEW QUESTION # 83

Which of the following types of RAID, if configured with the same number and type of disks, would provide the best write performance?

- A. RAID 5
- B. RAID 6
- C. RAID 10
- D. RAID 3

Answer: C

Explanation:

The type of RAID that would provide the best write performance if configured with the same number and type of disks is RAID 10. RAID 10, or RAID 1+0, is a type of RAID that combines mirroring and striping techniques to provide both redundancy and performance. Mirroring means that data is duplicated across two or more disks to provide fault tolerance and data protection. Striping means that data is split into blocks and distributed across two or more disks to provide faster access and throughput. RAID 10 requires at least four disks and can tolerate the failure of up to half of the disks without losing data. RAID 10 provides the best write performance among the RAID types because it can write data in parallel to multiple disks without parity calculations or overhead. The other options are either different types of RAID or not related to RAID at all. For example, RAID 3 is a type of RAID that uses striping with a dedicated parity disk to provide redundancy and performance; RAID 5 is a type of RAID that uses striping with distributed parity to provide redundancy and performance; RAID 6 is a type of RAID that uses striping with double distributed parity to provide extra redundancy and performance.

NEW QUESTION # 84

Over the weekend, a company's transaction database was moved to an upgraded server. All validations performed after the migration indicated that the database was functioning as expected. However, on Monday morning, multiple users reported that the corporate reporting application was not working.

Which of the following are the most likely causes? (Choose two.)

- A. The reporting application cannot keep up with the new, faster response from the database.
- B. The database server is not permitted to fulfill requests from a reporting application.
- C. The reporting jobs that could not process during the database migration have locked the application.
- D. The reporting application's mapping to the database location was not updated.
- E. The new database server has its own reporting system, so the old one is not needed.
- F. The access permissions for the service account used by the reporting application were not changed.

Answer: D,F

Explanation:

The most likely causes of the reporting application not working are that the access permissions for the service account used by the reporting application were not changed, and that the reporting application's mapping to the database location was not updated. These two factors could prevent the reporting application from accessing the new database server. The other options are either irrelevant or unlikely to cause the problem.
