- C. Projected return
- D. Investment objectives

Answer: D

Explanation:

Step by Step Explanation:

* Summary Prospectus Content: Must include key information such as the fund's investment objectives, risks, fees, and past performance. This helps investors make informed decisions.

* Incorrect Options:

* A: Projected returns are speculative and not included in the prospectus.

* C & D: Detailed portfolio holdings and control persons are included in the full prospectus, not the summary.

NEW QUESTION # 23

A customer purchases $3,000 of XYZ, which settles today in a margin account. The customer has no other positions or balances. According to initial margin requirements, what is the amount of the required deposit?

- A. $1,500
- B. $3,000
- C. $2,000
- D. $2,500

Answer: C

Explanation:

Under Federal Reserve Regulation T, customers must deposit at least 50% of the purchase price for margin trades. However, the minimum deposit requirement is $2,000, regardless of the 50% rule, if the account is below this threshold.

* 50% of $3,000 = $1,500.

* Since $1,500 is less than the $2,000 minimum, the customer must deposit the full $2,000.

* B is correct because $2,000 is the required minimum deposit.

* A is incorrect because the $1,500 calculation does not meet the minimum.

* C and D are incorrect because they exceed the minimum deposit requirement.

* Put Provision: Allows bondholders, not issuers, to sell the bond back to the issuer.

* Conversion: Relates to convertible bonds that can be converted into equity.

* Defeasement: Refers to the removal of a bond issuer's obligation by setting aside cash or securities to cover the debt.

Assume that the economy is operating at nearly full capacity. The initial results of an oversupply of money are most likely to have the greatest impact on which of the following macroeconomic factors?

- A. Inflation rate
- B. Real output
- C. Velocity of money
- D. Unemployment rate

Answer: A

Explanation:

When an economy operates near full capacity, additional money in circulation leads to inflation, as demand exceeds the economy's ability to increase supply.

* B is correct because inflation is the primary impact when supply cannot keep up with excess demand.

* A is incorrect because output does not significantly increase when capacity is already maximized.

* C is incorrect because velocity measures the rate at which money circulates, not the impact of oversupply.

* D is incorrect as unemployment is already low when the economy is at full capacity.
