IAPP Certified Artificial Intelligence Governance Professional Sample Questions (Q181-Q186):

NEW QUESTION # 181

CASE STUDY

A company is considering the procurement of an AI system designed to enhance the security of IT infrastructure. The AI system analyzes how users type on their laptops, including typing speed, rhythm and pressure, to create a unique user profile. This data is then used to authenticate users and ensure that only authorized personnel can access sensitive resources.

The data processed by the AI system would be classified as:

- A. Non-sensitive personal data, since it does not reveal information about health, gender or race
- B. Special category data, if it can be used to uniquely identify a person
- C. Non-personal data, as long as it is not linked to a user ID
- D. Organizational data, since it is part of the authentication process

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is D. Keystroke dynamics, used to identify individuals, fall under biometric data, which is a special category of personal data under the GDPR and other frameworks.

From the AI Governance in Practice Report 2025:

"Keystroke dynamics may constitute biometric data if used to uniquely identify an individual.. Biometric data is classified as special category personal data and requires higher protection standards." Also reflected in ILT Participant Guide:

"Biometric data, such as facial images, voiceprints, iris scans or keystroke patterns, are treated as special category data when they are used for the purpose of uniquely identifying individuals."

NEW QUESTION # 182

After completing model testing and validation, which of the following is the most important step that an organization takes prior to deploying the model into production?

- A. Document maintenance teams and processes.
- B. Define a model-validation methodology.
- C. Perform a readiness assessment.
- D. Identify known edge cases to monitor post-deployment.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Performing a readiness assessment ensures the model and supporting systems are fully prepared for deployment, addressing risks and compliance before going live.

NEW QUESTION # 183

CASE STUDY

Please use the following to answer the next question:

A premier payroll services company that employs thousands of people globally, is embarking on a new hiring campaign and wants to implement policies and procedures to identify and retain the best talent. The new talent will help the company's product team expand its payroll offerings to companies in the healthcare and transportation sectors, including in Asia.

It has become time consuming and expensive for HR to review all resumes, and they are concerned that human reviewers might be susceptible to bias.

To address these concerns, the company is considering using a third-party AI tool to screen resumes and assist with hiring. They have been talking to several vendors about possibly obtaining a third-party AI-enabled hiring solution, as long as it would achieve its goals and comply with all applicable laws.

The organization has a large procurement team that is responsible for the contracting of technology solutions. One of the procurement team's goals is to reduce costs, and it often prefers lower-cost solutions. Others within the company deploy technology solutions into the organization's operations in a responsible, cost-effective manner.

The organization is aware of the risks presented by AI hiring tools and wants to mitigate them. It also questions how best to organize and train its existing personnel to use the AI hiring tool responsibly. Their concerns are heightened by the fact that relevant laws vary across jurisdictions and continue to change.

Which of the following measures should the company adopt to best mitigate its risk of reputational harm from using the AI tool?

- A. Test the AI tool pre- and post-deployment.
- B. Require the procurement and deployment teams to agree upon the AI tool.
- C. Ensure the vendor provides indemnification for the AI tool.
- D. Continue to require the company's hiring personnel to manually screen all applicants.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Testing the AI tool before and after deployment helps identify biases and errors early, reducing the risk of reputational harm by ensuring the system performs fairly and reliably.

NEW QUESTION # 184

CASE STUDY

Please use the following answer the next question:

A mid-size US healthcare network has decided to develop an AI solution to detect a type of cancer that is most likely arise in adults. Specifically, the healthcare network intends to create a recognition algorithm that will perform an initial review of all imaging and then route records a radiologist for secondary review pursuant agreed-upon criteria (e.g., a confidence score below a threshold).

To date, the healthcare network has taken the following steps: defined its AI ethical principles; conducted discovery to identify the intended uses and success criteria for the system; established an AI governance committee; assembled a broad, crossfunctional team with clear roles and responsibilities; and created policies and procedures to document standards, workflows, timelines and risk thresholds during the project.

The healthcare network intends to retain a cloud provider to host the solution and a consulting firm to help develop the algorithm using the healthcare network's existing data and de-identified data that is licensed from a large US clinical research partner.

In the design phase, what is the most important step for the healthcare network to take when mapping its existing data to the clinical research partner data?

- A. Apply privacy-enhancing technologies to the data.
- B. Identify fits and gaps in the combined data.
- C. Evaluate the country of origin of the data.
- D. Ensure the data is labeled and formatted.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the design phase of integrating data from different sources, identifying fits and gaps is crucial. This process involves understanding how well the data from the clinical research partner aligns with the healthcare network's existing data. It ensures that the combined data set is coherent and can be effectively used for training the AI algorithm. This step helps in spotting any discrepancies, inconsistencies, or missing data that might affect the performance and accuracy of the AI model. It directly addresses the integrity and compatibility of the data, which is foundational before applying any privacy-enhancing technologies, labeling, or evaluating the origin of the data. NEW QUESTION # 185

In the context of increasing use of AI in business operations, your company seeks to update its data privacy policies. You are tasked with evaluating the current policies and proposing necessary updates to address AI-specific risks regarding protection of personal data. Which of the following would be the most effective addition to the company's data privacy policies?

- A. Require security training to employees before using AI systems.
- B. Prohibit the use of AI tools within the company.
- C. Request final review of the policy by senior management.
- D. Request regular audits of the AI Models.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Regular audits of AI models help ensure ongoing compliance with data privacy regulations and identify AI-specific risks related to personal data protection.
