AACN CCRN (Adult) - Direct Care Eligibility Pathway Sample Questions (Q627-Q632):

NEW QUESTION # 627

The critical care nurse has just completed providing initial wound care teaching and determines that the educational outcomes established in her teaching plan have been achieved. Which of the following is MOST LIKELY to be true for the patient who has just received the teaching?

- A. They understand the information and do not require any further teaching on the topic.
- B. They will require the nurse to repeat the education multiple times.
- C. Their level of understanding regarding what they have just learned requires further assessment.
- D. They will likely require reinforcement of the education that was provided.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Even when the outcome of education is achieved, it is still likely that the patient will require continued reinforcement of the materials they have learned. While the patient may have understood the teaching, they will likely require reinforcement of the information. If the learning outcome has been achieved, reinforcement, not multiple episodes of repetition, will be required. If the nurse has determined that the educational outcomes were met, then further assessment of the patient's level of understanding is likely unnecessary.

NEW QUESTION # 628

The nurse is caring for a patient with irreversible Multiple Organ Dysfunction Syndrome (MODS).

According to the updated international sepsis care guidelines, the nurse should request a palliative care consult as early as possible, but no later than within:

- A. 24 hours of ICU admission
- B. 96 hours of ICU admission
- C. 12 hours of ICU admission
- D. 72 hours of ICU admission

Answer: D

Explanation:

The new guidelines identify that a family care conference to discuss goals of care should be addressed as early as feasible, but no later than within 72 hours of ICU admission. Included in the conference should be a discussion about palliative care principles, and end-of-life care planning as appropriate.

NEW QUESTION # 629

A nurse on a critical care unit is implementing a newly adopted evidence-based intervention. A family member questions the necessity of the intervention. What is the BEST way for the nurse to respond?

- A. The nurse should assure the family member that their loved one will be okay
- B. The nurse should explain the rationale behind the intervention and the evidence supporting it
- C. The nurse should tell the family member to consult with the doctor
- D. The nurse should research the intervention more in-depth

Answer: B

Explanation:

The nurse's responsibility involves providing patient-centered care, which includes family education.

One of the reasons that nurses should remain current with their clinical knowledge is so that they can provide accurate information about new interventions and treatments. The nurse will only need to research the intervention more in-depth if they do not understand the rationale behind the newly adopted evidence-based intervention. If this is the situation, they should not have implemented the intervention in the first place. The nurse should not pass their responsibilities on to the doctor. While reassuring family members that their loved one will be okay may be therapeutic in some situations, it does not address the family member's questions.

NEW QUESTION # 630

Which of the following statements is TRUE regarding pulse oximetry?

- A. It estimates arterial O₂ saturation
- B. It measures hemoglobin count
- C. It measures PaO₂
- D. It measures heart rate

Answer: A

Explanation:

Pulse oximetry is a common method for the continuous noninvasive monitoring of SaO₂. A sensor is applied to the skin over areas with strong arterial pulsatile blood flow (e.g., peripheral finger or toe).

Hemoglobin is measured by a CBC (Complete Blood Count) or H&H (Hemoglobin and Hematocrit). Pulse oximetry does not measure heart rate (although heart rate may be indicated by the plethysmograph in many situations) nor does it measure PaO₂ (partial pressure of O₂ in arterial blood, measured in mmHg).

NEW QUESTION # 631

Treatment options for Heparin-Induced Thrombocytopenia (HIT) may include all of the following EXCEPT:

- A. discontinuing all heparin therapy
- B. initiating therapy with direct thrombin inhibitors
- C. utilizing alternative thrombin inhibitors
- D. administering erythropoietin

Answer: D

Explanation:

Heparin-Induced Thrombocytopenia (HIT) is a serious side effect that can occur during treatment with heparin. Heparin is a medication used to decrease clotting. Unfortunately, heparin can occasionally lead to low blood platelet counts and to life-threatening blood clots. Venous thrombosis is the most common and may result in limb ischemia and pulmonary emboli.

Treatment options include:

- * All heparin should be stopped; however, discontinuation of heparin alone is not sufficient
- * Administration of direct thrombin inhibitors (e.g., argatroban)
- * Utilizing alternative thrombin inhibitors

Platelet infusions are usually necessary.

Patients diagnosed with HIT should not receive heparin again.

Erythropoietin stimulates the synthesis of red blood cells and will not treat HIT.
