Cisco Certified Support Technician (CCST) Cybersecurity Sample Questions (Q27-Q32):

NEW QUESTION # 27

Your home network seems to have slowed down considerably. You look at the home router GUI and notice that an unknown host is attached to the network.

What should you do to prevent this specific host from attaching to the network again?

- A. Change the network SSID.
- B. Create an IP access control list.
- C. Implement MAC address filtering.
- D. Block the host IP address.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The CCST Cybersecurity course explains that MAC address filtering is a network access control method that allows only approved device hardware addresses to connect. While not foolproof against spoofing, it can block a specific device from reconnecting to a small home network.

"MAC address filtering restricts network access to devices whose unique hardware addresses are explicitly allowed. This can be used to block known unauthorized devices from reconnecting." (CCST Cybersecurity, Basic Network Security Concepts, Wireless Security Controls section, Cisco Networking Academy) A is incorrect: IP ACLs are better for controlling traffic types, not blocking specific devices at the router level.

B is correct: It prevents the device's hardware address from reconnecting.

C is temporary since the host can get a new IP via DHCP.

D may hide the network but will not stop a determined attacker who can still detect it.

NEW QUESTION # 28

What is tailgating in the context of cybersecurity?

- A. A type of phishing attack that targets specific individuals or organizations.
- B. A physical attack where an unauthorized person gains entry to a restricted area by following closely behind an authorized person.
- C. A form of social engineering attack that uses SMS or text messages to trick victims into revealing sensitive information.
- D. A cyber attack where an attacker manipulates and deceives an individual to reveal sensitive information.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Tailgating refers to the act of an unauthorized person gaining physical access to a secured area by closely following behind an authorized person who has just been granted access. This form of physical attack exploits the weakness in human behavior, as people tend to hold doors open for others out of politeness or assume that the person following them is authorized.

NEW QUESTION # 29

Which of the following is a good practice for updating documentation in a secure manner?

- A. Storing the documentation on a publicly accessible server
- B. Allowing multiple users to directly edit the documentation
- C. Making updates without keeping a revision history
- D. Implementing version control and access controls

Answer: D

Explanation:

To update documentation securely, it is advisable to implement version control mechanisms that track changes and allow reverting to previous versions if needed. Additionally, access controls should be implemented to ensure that only authorized users can modify the documentation, reducing the risk of unauthorized changes.

NEW QUESTION # 30

Which technology actively inspects incoming and outgoing network traffic and takes immediate action to prevent security threats?

- A. IPS
- B. Firewall
- C. Server

- D. IDS

Answer: A

Explanation:

An Intrusion Prevention System (IPS) is a technology that actively inspects network traffic, both incoming and outgoing, and takes immediate action to prevent security threats. It not only identifies potential threats but also actively blocks or mitigates them in real-time.

NEW QUESTION # 31

Which of the following is an essential component of information security assessments?

- A. Incident response planning
- B. User training
- C. All of the above
- D. Penetration testing

Answer: C

Explanation:

Information security assessments involve assessing the security posture of an IT system. Penetration testing, which involves simulating attacks to identify vulnerabilities, is an important component of such assessments. Additionally, user training is vital because human error or lack of awareness can often be a weak point in security. Understanding how to recognize and respond to potential threats is crucial. Lastly, incident response planning is essential to ensure that the organization is prepared to handle and mitigate any security incidents effectively. Therefore, all the options mentioned in the
