Adobe Experience Manager DevOps Engineer Expert Sample Questions (Q27-Q32):

NEW QUESTION # 27

Which actions help identify bottlenecks affecting AEM performance? (Choose two)

- A. Reviewing logs for long-running queries

- B. Modifying the sling.properties file to boost performance
- C. Increasing the number of publish instances without checking load balancer settings

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 28

A DevOps engineer integrates an on-premise repository with Cloud Manager using Jenkins and the Git plugin. After a few builds, the developers notice that code is not getting merged into the proper branch on Cloud Manager.

There are no build errors to report.

What should the DevOps engineer do?

- A. Check that the name of the target remote in the post build action equals the Cloud Manager remote.
- B. Validate that the credentials for the local and Cloud Manager repositories are correct.
- C. Confirm that the URLs for the local and Cloud Manager repositories are correct.
- D. Make sure to do a force push merge code with the Cloud Manager branch in the post build actions.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When integrating external CI/CD tools (like Jenkins) with Adobe Cloud Manager's Git repository, a common, silent failure occurs during the push phase. Because Cloud Manager occasionally modifies the Git history internally (e.g., during environment syncing or Adobe updates), the local Jenkins repository history and the Cloud Manager remote history can diverge. When this happens, a standard git push fails silently or is rejected by the remote without throwing a standard build compilation error. The recognized DevOps workaround for this specific Cloud Manager Git integration is to configure the Jenkins post-build Git publisher to perform a "force push" to overwrite the remote branch.

- D. To automate the build, test, and deployment of AEM applications

NEW QUESTION # 31

- B. /0001 { /type "deny" /url "/crx/*" }
