CompTIA Cybersecurity Analyst (CySA+) Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q448-Q453):

NEW QUESTION # 448

A security administrator is tasked with modifying the vulnerability scan process to reduce the network traffic but maintain thorough checks. Which of the following scanning approaches should be implemented?

- A. Agent-based scans
- B. Individual scans
- C. Security baseline scans
- D. Credentialed scans

Answer: A

Explanation:

Agent-based scans are run locally on hosts via installed agents, which significantly reduces network traffic while allowing in-depth visibility and accurate scanning. They're ideal for bandwidth-limited or sensitive networks.

NEW QUESTION # 449

Which of the following responsibilities does the legal team have during an incident management event? (Select two).

- A. Ensure all system security devices and procedures are in place.
- B. Advise the incident response team on matters related to regulatory reporting.
- C. Verify that all security personnel have the appropriate clearances.
- D. Coordinate additional or temporary staffing for recovery efforts.
- E. Conduct computer and network damage assessments for insurance.
- F. Review and approve new contracts acquired as a result of an event.

Answer: B,F

Explanation:

The legal team plays a crucial role in managing the legal and compliance aspects of incident response. They review and approve contracts (B) for emergency services, like incident response firms, and provide guidance on regulatory reporting (C), ensuring the organization meets compliance requirements. According to CompTIA Security+ guidelines, legal teams focus on regulatory and contractual matters rather than operational aspects like staffing (A) or security procedures (D).

NEW QUESTION # 450

An organization has tracked several incidents that are listed in the following table:

□ Which of the following is the organization's MTTD?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: D

Explanation:

The MTTD (Mean Time To Detect) is calculated by averaging the time elapsed in detecting incidents. From the given data: $(180+150+170+140)/4 = 160$ minutes.

NEW QUESTION # 451

A security analyst received a malicious binary file to analyze. Which of the following is the best technique to perform the analysis?

- A. Fuzzing

- B. Code analysis
- C. Reverse engineering
- D. Static analysis

Answer: C

Explanation:

Reverse engineering is the process of decompiling a program to its source code, or of analyzing a binary file to understand its function. This is the best technique to perform the analysis of a malicious binary file, as it allows the analyst to see the code that the malware is actually running.

This can help the analyst to identify the malware's purpose, its capabilities, and how it spreads.

NEW QUESTION # 452

A company is implementing a vulnerability management program and moving from an on-premises environment to a hybrid IaaS cloud environment. Which of the following implications should be considered on the new hybrid environment?

- A. Cloud-specific misconfigurations may not be detected by the current scanners
- B. Vulnerability scans on cloud environments should be performed from the cloud
- C. Existing vulnerability scanners cannot scan IaaS systems
- D. The current scanners should be migrated to the cloud

Answer: A

Explanation:

Cloud-specific misconfigurations are security issues that arise from improper or inadequate configuration of cloud resources, such as storage buckets, databases, virtual machines, or containers. Cloud-specific misconfigurations may not be detected by the current scanners that are designed for on-premises environments, as they may not have the visibility or access to the cloud resources or the cloud provider's APIs. Therefore, one of the implications that should be considered on the new hybrid environment is that cloud-specific misconfigurations may not be detected by the current scanners.
