Cisco Implementing Cisco Collaboration Cloud Customer Experience Sample Questions (Q56-Q61):

NEW QUESTION # 56

An administrator must connect a customer call to an external IVR service while retaining control of the call and later return it to the original flow. Which node must the administrator use to make this happen?

- A. Blind Transfer node
- B. HTTP Request node
- C. GoTo node
- D. Bridged Transfer node

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Bridged Transfer node connects the caller to an external IVR or destination while Webex Contact Center retains control of the interaction. After the external service completes, the call can return to the original flow for continued processing.

NEW QUESTION # 57

Which configuration action must be taken to enable the real-time transcripts AI Assistant feature?

- A. Ensure the Condition node is present in the flow for post activities.

- B. Add the Media Stream node after the Agent Answered event.
- C. Configure the Scripted AI Agent.
- D. Add the Media Stream node in the flow before the call is sent to the queue or agent.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Real-time transcripts require the call audio stream to be started before the interaction is delivered to the queue or agent. Adding the Media Stream node at that point enables the AI Assistant to receive the live audio needed to generate real-time transcription during the customer interaction.

NEW QUESTION # 59

As per the policy, the business requires explicit permission from the caller before any interaction can be recorded in the contact center. To manage this, the flow includes a Menu IVR activity that presents recording consent options to the caller. The caller's choice is logged and then passed as input to the Recording Control activity element of the flow. Which two statements are true based on the functionality and rules of the Recording Control activity? (Choose two.)

- A. If the user doesn't provide any consent or response to the activity, then the call is not recorded, regardless of the recording configuration set at the tenant, queue, or recording schedule level.
- B. If the caller provides explicit consent as Yes, but their call is handled by an agent whose specific recording schedule is set to No, the call is not recorded.
- C. If the caller provides explicit consent as Yes in the flow, then the call is recorded, even when the recording configuration is set to 'No' at the tenant, queue, or recording schedule level.
- D. If the caller reaches the queue but explicitly declines consent, the call is still recorded because the recording configuration for the whole tenant is set to Yes.
- E. If the Recording Control activity is temporarily removed from the flow, any call routed to the queue and presented to an agent is recorded, which overrides the tenant-level No setting if the specific queue-level setting is set to Yes.

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

When recording consent is explicitly set to Yes in the flow, the Recording Control activity takes priority over tenant, queue, and recording schedule settings, so the call is recorded. When the activity is removed or consent is not configured in the flow, recording follows the configured hierarchy, so a queue-level Yes setting can cause the call to be recorded even if the tenant-level setting is No.

NEW QUESTION # 60

A supervisor in a contact center must manage recording-related activities to ensure their team's compliance and maintain quality standards. Which three recording management capabilities can the supervisor perform in Webex Contact Center to effectively handle various recording management tasks that support operational efficiency? - B. Search for specific agent interactions with the customer.
- C. Tag recordings with descriptive keywords.
- D. Filter the list of recordings based on set criteria.
- E. Delete recordings permanently.

Answer: B,C,D

Explanation:

Supervisors can manage recordings by searching for specific customer-agent interactions, filtering recordings based on defined criteria, and tagging recordings with descriptive keywords to support review, compliance tracking, and quality management workflows.
