EC-COUNCIL EC-Council Certified Network Defender CND Sample Questions (Q584-Q589):

NEW QUESTION # 584
Daniel works as a network administrator in an Information Security company. He has just deployed an IDS in his organization's network and wants to calculate the false positive rate for his implementation. Which of the following formulae can he use to so?

- A. False Negative/True Negative+True positive
- B. False Positive/False Positive+True Negative
- C. True Negative/False Negative+True Positive
- D. False Negative/False Negative+True Positive

Answer: B

Explanation:
The false positive rate is a measure used to evaluate the performance of an IDS (Intrusion Detection System).
It is calculated by dividing the number of false positives (FP) by the sum of false positives and true negatives (TN). The formula is:
False Positive Rate=FP+TNFP
This formula helps in determining how often the IDS incorrectly classifies an event as a threat, which is actually benign. A lower false positive rate indicates a more accurate IDS.
References: This formula and its application are consistent with standard practices in network security and align with the Certified Network Defender (CND) course material. For further details, please refer to the official CND study guide and documents.
