NEW QUESTION # 817
A user requires local administrative access to a workstation. Which of the following Control Panel utilities allows the technician to grant access to the user?

- A. Network and Sharing Center
- B. User Accounts
- C. System
- D. Security and Maintenance

Answer: B

Explanation:
User Accounts is a Control Panel utility that allows the technician to manage user accounts and groups on a local computer. The technician can use this utility to add a user to the local administrators group, which grants the user local administrative access to the workstation. The other options are not relevant for this task.

NEW QUESTION # 818
Maintaining the chain of custody is an important part of the incident response process. Which of the following reasons explains why this is important?

- A. To properly identify the issue
- B. To control evidence and maintain integrity
- C. To gather as much information as possible
- D. To maintain an information security policy

Answer: B

Explanation:
Explanation
Maintaining the chain of custody is important to control evidence and maintain integrity. The chain of custody is a process that documents who handled, accessed, or modified a piece of evidence, when, where, how, and why. The chain of custody ensures that the evidence is preserved, protected, and authenticated throughout the incident response process. Maintaining the chain of custody can help prevent tampering, alteration, or loss of evidence, as well as establish its reliability and validity in legal proceedings. Maintaining an information security policy, properly identifying the issue, and gathering as much information as possible are not reasons why maintaining the chain of custody is important. Maintaining an information security policy is a general practice that defines the rules and guidelines for securing an organization's information assets and resources.

Properly identifying the issue is a step in the incident response process that involves analyzing and classifying the incident based on its severity, impact, and scope. Gathering as much information as possible is a step in the incident response process that involves collecting and documenting relevant data and evidence from various sources, such as logs, alerts, or witnesses. NEW QUESTION # 819
A hotel's Wi-Fi was used to steal information on a corporate laptop. A technician notes the following security log:
SRC: 192.168.1.1/secrets.zip Protocol SMB >> DST: 192.168.1.50/capture
The technician analyses the following Windows firewall information:
Which of the following protocols most likely allowed the data theft to occur?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

Explanation:
The protocol that most likely allowed the data theft to occur is SMB over TCP port 445. SMB is a network file sharing protocol that enables access to files, printers, and other resources on a network. Port 445 is used by SMB to communicate directly over TCP without the need for NetBIOS, which is an older and less secure protocol. The security log shows that the source IP address 192.168.1.1 sent a file named secrets.zip using SMB protocol to the destination IP address 192.168.1.50, which captured the file. The Windows firewall information shows that port 445 is enabled for inbound and outbound traffic, which means that it is not blocked by the firewall. Therefore, port 445 is the most likely port that was exploited by the attacker to steal the data from the corporate laptop.
