Salesforce Certified Platform Developer I Sample Questions (Q59-Q64):

NEW QUESTION # 59

Cloud Kicks Fitness, an ISV Salesforce partner, is developing a managed package application. One of the application modules allows the user to calculate body fat using the Apex class, BodyFat, and its method, calculateBodyFat(). The product owner wants to ensure this method is accessible by the consumer of the application when developing customizations outside the ISV's package namespace.

Which approach should a developer take to ensure calculateBodyFat() is accessible outside the package namespace?

- A. Declare the class and method using the global access modifier.
- B. Declare the class and method using the public access modifier.
- C. Declare the class as public and use the global access modifier on the method.
- D. Declare the class as global and use the public access modifier on the method.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The global access modifier declares that the class and method are known by all Apex code everywhere, not just within the same application or package namespace. This access modifier must be used for any method that must be referenced outside of the application, either in SOAP API or by other Apex code¹. The other options are either incorrect or insufficient, as they do not guarantee the accessibility of the method outside the package namespace². References:

NEW QUESTION # 60

A developer needs to make a custom Lightning Web Component available in the Salesforce Classic user interface Which approach can be used to accomplish this?

- A. Wrap the Lightning Web Component in an Aura Component and surface the Aura Component as a Visualforce tab.
- B. Embed the Lightning Web Component in a Visualforce Component and add directly to the page layout.
- C. Use the Lightning Out JavaScript library to embed the Lightning Web Component in a Visualforce page and add to the page layout.
- D. Use a Visualforce page with a custom controller to invoke the Lightning Web Component using a call to an Apex method.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 61

A developer writes the following code:

What is the result of the debug statement?

- A. 1, 150
- B. 1, 100
- C. 2, 150
- D. 2, 200

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 62

A developer creates a custom exception as shown below:

```
public class ParityException extends Exception {}
```

What are two ways the developer can fire the exception in Apex?

Choose 2 answers

- A. throw new ParityException();
- B. new ParityException('parity does not match');
- C. throw new ParityException("parity does not match");
- D. new ParityException();;

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

To use a custom exception, you can create an instance of the custom exception class and use the throw keyword to throw the exception. You can also optionally provide a custom error message or a chained exception cause as arguments to the custom exception constructor. The syntax for throwing a custom exception is:

```
throw new CustomException(optional_message, optional_cause);

Therefore, the options B and D are valid ways to fire the custom exception in Apex. The options A and C are invalid because they only create an instance of the custom exception class, but do not throw it. Also, the option C uses single quotes instead of double quotes for the error message, which is not allowed in Apex. References:

You can find more information about custom exceptions in the Apex Developer Guide and the Apex Reference Guide on Salesforce's official website. You can also read this blog post for a tutorial on creating and using custom exceptions.

NEW QUESTION # 63

Which aspect of Apex programming is limited due to multitenancy?

- A. The number of records returned from database queries
- B. The number of methods in an Apex Class
- C. The number of records processed in a loop
- D. The number of active Apex classes

Answer: A
