VMware Avi Load Balancer 30.x Administrator Sample Questions (Q199-Q204):

NEW QUESTION # 199

A Virtual Service is configured to provide SSL/TLS offload for an application. Where in the Avi architecture does the decryption and encryption of client traffic actually occur?

Client ---[HTTPS]---> [ ? ] ---[HTTP]---> Backend Server

- A. On the Avi Controller, before the configuration is sent to the data plane.
- B. On the backend server, using a certificate provided by the Avi Controller.
- C. On the Service Engine that is hosting the Virtual Service.
- D. On the client's browser, using a key provided by the Service Engine.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 200

In which situation would the Advanced Setup mode of the Create Virtual Service wizard be required?

- A. Adding the Virtual Service name to DNS
- B. Specifying the Virtual Service as HTTPS
- C. Specifying analytics settings
- D. Adding servers

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Basic Setup mode is intended for common Virtual Service creation tasks, such as defining the application type and adding pool servers. Advanced Setup exposes the full Virtual Service configuration through multiple tabs and allows administrators to configure more detailed options that are not presented in the simplified workflow. VMware Avi documentation states that creating a Virtual Service in Advanced Setup allows configuration of all options through the different tabs. Analytics settings, including selecting or customizing analytics behavior for the Virtual Service, are advanced Virtual Service properties. By contrast, adding servers and choosing HTTPS are standard creation tasks, and adding a DNS name is not the key reason to require Advanced Setup in this question. Therefore, Advanced Setup is required for specifying analytics settings.

NEW QUESTION # 201

A Virtual Service is configured with a System-L7 profile and has policies for content switching and header manipulation. Where are these L7 policies actually executed?

- A. On the Avi Controller, which then instructs the backend server on how to route the request.
- B. On the client's browser, via a script downloaded from the Avi Controller.
- C. On the backend server, which has an Avi agent installed on it.
- D. On the Service Engine, after it has terminated the client's TCP and SSL/TLS connections.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 202

After deploying a new Avi Controller OVA, the vSphere Administrator powers on the virtual machine. The administrator observes the following messages on the VM console.

[ OK ] Started Network Service.

[ OK ] Reached target Network.

[ OK ] Reached target Network is Online.

Welcome to Avi Vantage

(none) login:

The administrator is unable to log in with the default credentials they found online. What is the most likely reason for this issue?

- A. The controller's firewall is blocking SSH and console access.
- B. The controller is still running initial setup scripts and is not ready for login.
- C. The controller has booted into a recovery or emergency mode.
- D. The default password has expired and must be reset from vCenter.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 203

Which metrics graph in the Virtual Service Analytics page will show the rate of 5xx errors?

- A. End-to-End Timing
- B. Conns
- C. Requests
- D. HTTP Errors

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Virtual Service Analytics page provides different graph categories for traffic, connection, timing, and error visibility. VMware Avi documentation states that the Requests chart shows the number of responses to requests per second and breaks down successful requests versus errors, including 4xx and 5xx errors. This makes the Requests graph the appropriate place to view the rate of HTTP 5xx errors for a Virtual Service. The Conns graph is focused on connection counts and rates, while End-to-End Timing shows timing components such as client RTT, server RTT, application response, and data transfer. "HTTP Errors" may sound plausible, but in the Avi Virtual Service Analytics graph naming described here, 5xx rate visibility is included under Requests.
