HPE Compute Solutions Sample Questions (Q67-Q72):

NEW QUESTION # 67

Your customer has an HPE Synergy frame equipped with a D3940 Storage Module. Each of the compute nodes has the appropriate storage controller installed and two 12Gb SAS switches installed in the first fabric.

The customer reports that the compute nodes cannot access the storage module. What will you verify first when troubleshooting this problem?

- A. If the D3940 module is imported in a managed state that allows volume provisioning.
- B. If there is at least one iSCSI network configured that will provide access to the module.

- C. If the SAS logical interconnect is a part of the logical enclosure and has a healthy state.
- D. If the D3940 storage module is properly licensed through the HPE OneView interface.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 68

A junior architect designed a solution based on HPE Synergy that must meet the following requirements:

- Support at least 30 HPE Synergy 480 Gen10 Plus compute modules
- Interconnect modules must provide MAC and WWN virtualization
- All HPE Synergy frames must formulate a single management entity
- The management appliance should not be a single point of failure
- Connectivity to FC array should be available to all compute nodes

The proposal consists of:

- 3 HPE Synergy 12000 frames
- 6 HPE Composer 2 modules
- 2 HPE Virtual Connect SE 100Gb F32 Module
- 4 HPE Synergy 50Gb Interconnect Link Module

Which statements about this proposed design are true? (Select two)

- A. HPE Synergy 50Gb ILMs must be replaced with HPE Virtual Connect SE 100Gb F32 modules.
- B. The current setup can support up to 18 HPE Synergy 480 Gen10 Plus compute modules.
- C. Remove 4 HPE Composer 2 modules from the design, as they are not required.
- D. The selected interconnect modules do not provide the requested WWN virtualization.
- E. FC upgrade licenses for HPE Virtual Connect SE 100Gb F32 Module must be added.

Answer: C,D

Click the Change link located next to Server hardware type .

In HPE OneView, a Server Profile is a logical software-defined representation of a server. A key component of its definition is the Server Hardware Type , which acts as a " schema " describing the physical characteristics of the server (such as the number of processors, drive bays, and mezzanine slots).

* Hardware Incompatibility: Because the HPE Synergy 480 and Synergy 660 have different physical architectures, they are classified as different Server Hardware Types. You cannot simply assign a profile created for a 480 directly to a 660 blade; the " Server hardware " dropdown would show the 660 blades as incompatible.

* The Migration Path: To perform this migration, the profile must first be unassigned from its current physical hardware. Once unassigned, clicking the Change link next to Server hardware type allows the administrator to select the hardware type that matches the Synergy 660.

* Identity Preservation: By changing the hardware type within the existing profile rather than creating a new one, the profile retains its Virtual Identities (WWNs, MAC addresses, and Serial Number). This is critical in environments with manual storage zoning or strict network security, as it ensures the " new " physical server is recognized by the fabric as the " old " logical server.

* Validation: After changing the type, HPE OneView performs a validation check to ensure the existing settings (like Mezzanine card mappings) are compatible with the new hardware layout before allowing the profile to be assigned to the new 660 compute module.
