SAP Certified Associate - Organizational Change Management Sample Questions (Q45-Q50):

NEW QUESTION # 45

Which communication assets are usually developed at an early stage of an SAP cloud project? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. A modular overview presentation providing generic project information
- B. An FAQ list describing the key change impacts for different user groups
- C. A glossary explaining typical SAP and business terms used in the cloud context
- D. A cheat sheet giving hands-on advice about how to use the new cloud system

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Early-stage communication assets in SAP OCM (Prepare/Explore phases) aim to build awareness and understanding. Option B is correct because a modular overview presentation (e.g., slides on project goals, timeline, benefits) provides generic, reusable information for initial stakeholder briefings, such as kick-off meetings. Its modularity allows customization for different audiences (e.g., executives vs. users). Option C is correct as a glossary of SAP terms (e.g., "fit-to-standard," "S/4HANA") and business jargon clarifies terminology, reducing confusion in a cloud context where new concepts abound.

Option A is incorrect-an FAQ on change impacts requires detailed CIA insights, which come later (Explore/Realize). Option D is incorrect; a cheat sheet with system usage tips is an enablement tool developed closer to go-live (Realize/Deploy), not early on. SAP OCM prioritizes foundational assets to set the stage for later specifics.

"Early communication assets include a modular project overview presentation and a glossary of SAP and business terms to establish clarity and awareness" (SAP Activate, Early Communication Deliverables).

NEW QUESTION # 46

At the beginning of a large-scale cloud implementation project, the project lead asks the change manager to develop a detailed change plan for all upcoming implementation waves. How should the change manager react? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Point out that the change plan will only be provided at a very generic level and all refinements will be documented in an open activity list
- B. Ask the project lead to provide a detailed project plan for all implementation waves as a basis for elaborating the change plan
- C. Explain that early granular planning is often a waste of time and resources, as many factors can still have an impact on the change plan
- D. Refer to the advantages of an agile approach for continuously updating and refining the change plan

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

At a project's start (Prepare phase), a detailed change plan for all waves is premature due to evolving variables in a large-scale SAP cloud implementation. Option A is correct because an agile approach-where the plan starts high-level and is iteratively refined (e.g., after each wave's lessons learned)-aligns with SAP Activate's flexibility. For example, initial resistance might shift priorities, requiring adjustments; agility accommodates this. Option D is correct as early granular planning wastes effort-e.g., scheduling training for Wave 3 before Wave 1's scope is clear is risky when requirements, timelines, or resources might change. This reflects SAP's pragmatic stance on planning amidst uncertainty.

Option B is incorrect-offering only a generic plan with an "open activity list" dismisses the project lead's request without constructive dialogue, undermining collaboration. Option C is incorrect; demanding a detailed project plan shifts responsibility unrealistically-OCM aligns with the project, not vice versa, and early details are often unavailable. The change manager should educate and adapt, not deflect or overpromise. SAP OCM balances responsiveness with realism.

"Respond to early detailed plan requests by advocating an agile, iterative approach and noting that granular planning is inefficient due to early-stage uncertainties" (SAP Activate, Change Plan Development Guidelines).

NEW QUESTION # 47

Which aspects are usually documented in a communication channel analysis? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. Degree of standardization required for the channel
- B. Name and short description of the channel
- C. Frequency of use and owner of the channel
- D. Stakeholders or stakeholder groups targeted by the channel

- E. Estimated costs per change communication activity via the channel

Answer: B,C,D

Explanation:

A communication channel analysis in SAP OCM evaluates how channels support change communication.

Option C is correct because naming and describing each channel (e.g., "intranet - company news portal") clarifies its purpose and reach. Option D is correct as frequency of use (e.g., weekly updates) and ownership (e.g., HR team) define operational details and accountability. Option E is correct because identifying target stakeholders (e.g., key users, managers) ensures messages align with audience needs.

Option A is incorrect- "degree of standardization" is vague and not a standard aspect; channels are assessed for effectiveness, not uniformity. Option B is incorrect; while costs might be considered, they're not typically documented per activity in this analysis- budgeting is separate. SAP OCM uses this analysis to optimize communication delivery.

"A communication channel analysis documents channel names and descriptions, frequency and ownership, and targeted stakeholder groups to ensure effective messaging" (SAP OCM Framework, Communication Planning).

NEW QUESTION # 48

How would you assign the responsibilities for organizational change management in a cloud project? Note:

There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Independently from the project size, the change management responsibility is assigned to the project sponsor.
- B. In mid-size projects, the change management responsibility should be assigned to the business leaders of the impacted units.
- C. In large projects, the change management responsibility is usually assigned to a designated change manager or a change management team.
- D. In small projects, the project manager can take over the change management responsibility.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Responsibility assignment in SAP OCM depends on project scale. Option A is correct because large projects require specialized expertise, so a dedicated change manager or team is typical to handle complexity. Option C is correct as small projects often lack resources for a separate change manager, so the project manager assumes this role. Option B is incorrect- business leaders may support change but are not typically responsible for managing it, as this requires specific OCM skills. Option D is incorrect; the project sponsor provides oversight and support, not direct responsibility for execution, regardless of size.

Extract from SAP OCM Concepts: SAP Activate recommends tailoring OCM roles to project size, with dedicated resources for large implementations and consolidated roles for smaller ones(SAP OCM Framework).

NEW QUESTION # 49

What are possible people-related challenges that change management has to address during an SAP cloud implementation? Note:

There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Users demonstrate a "not-invented-here" attitude towards the new cloud standard and show a lack of buy-in.
- B. Users feel underchallenged and bored by additional repetitive tasks they have to take over.
- C. Users are resistant to learning the technical skills for adapting the new cloud solution to their individual needs.
- D. Users experience stress and frustration because they must unlearn previous habits.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

SAP cloud implementations introduce significant people-related challenges that change management must mitigate. Option A is correct because the "not-invented-here" syndrome-where users reject external standards (e.g., SAP best practices) in favor of legacy processes-leads to resistance and lack of buy-in, a common barrier in cloud projects due to reduced customization. Option B is correct as users often face stress and frustration when unlearning old habits to adopt new workflows, especially with cloud solutions' standardized processes, which differ from familiar systems. This emotional response requires targeted enablement and support.

Option C is incorrect-users don't typically adapt the cloud solution technically (that's an IT role); their resistance is more about adoption, not technical customization skills. Option D is incorrect; cloud implementations aim to streamline tasks, not add repetitive ones, so boredom isn't a typical challenge- resistance stems from change, not monotony. SAP OCM focuses on overcoming attitudinal and behavioral hurdles to ensure adoption.

"People challenges include resistance from a 'not-invented-here' attitude and stress from unlearning old habits, requiring change management to foster acceptance and adaptation" (SAP OCM Framework, People- Related Challenges).
