(CCSKv5.0) Sample Questions (Q311-Q316):

NEW QUESTION # 311

Which of the following strategies best enhances infrastructure resilience against Cloud Service Provider (CSP) technical failures?

- A. Local backup
- B. Single-region resiliency
- C. High Availability within one data center
- D. Multi-region resiliency

Answer: D

Explanation:

Multi-region resiliency enhances infrastructure resilience by distributing resources across multiple geographic locations, reducing the impact of regional outages. Reference: [Security Guidance v5, Domain 7 - Infrastructure & Networking]

NEW QUESTION # 312

What is known as the interface used to connect with the metastructure and configure the cloud environment?

- A. Single sign-on
- B. Identity and Access Management
- C. Cloud dashboard
- D. Administrative access
- E. Management plane

Answer: E

NEW QUESTION # 313

Which of the following best describes a key benefit of Software-Defined Networking (SDN)?

- A. SDN eliminates the need for physical network devices and cabling
- B. SDN is primarily focused on improving network security through advanced firewalls
- C. SDN allows networks to be dynamically configured and managed through software
- D. SDN is a hardware-based solution for optimizing network performance

Answer: C

Explanation:

A key benefit of Software-Defined Networking (SDN) is that it allows networks to be dynamically configured and managed through software. SDN separates the control plane from the data plane, enabling centralized management and programmable network configurations, which improves flexibility and scalability in cloud environments.

From the CCSK v5.0 Study Guide, Domain 9 (Network Security), Section 9.3:

"Software-Defined Networking (SDN) enables dynamic configuration and management of networks through software, decoupling the control plane from the data plane. This allows organizations to programmatically adjust network policies and traffic flows, improving agility and scalability in cloud environments." Option C (SDN allows networks to be dynamically configured and managed through software) is the correct answer.

Option A (Hardware-based solution) is incorrect because SDN is software-based.

Option B (Eliminates physical devices) is incorrect because SDN still relies on physical infrastructure.

Option D (Focused on firewalls) is incorrect because SDN's primary benefit is flexibility, not firewalls.

NEW QUESTION # 314

APIs and web services require extensive hardening and must assume attacks from authenticated and unauthenticated adversaries.

- A. True
- B. False

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 315

What is the most effective way to identify security vulnerabilities in an application?

- A. Conducting automated and manual security testing throughout the development
- B. Waiting until the application is fully developed and performing a single penetration test
- C. Relying solely on secure coding practices by the developers without any testing
- D. Performing code reviews of the application source code just prior to release

Answer: A

Explanation:

The most effective way to identify security vulnerabilities in an application is to conduct automated and manual security testing throughout the development lifecycle. This approach ensures that security is continuously evaluated at every stage of development, rather than waiting until the end. Automated tools can help identify common vulnerabilities quickly, while manual testing allows for more in-depth analysis, including testing for complex, contextual security issues. This proactive and ongoing approach reduces the risk of vulnerabilities being overlooked and helps ensure that security is integrated into the application from the start.

Performing code reviews just prior to release is valuable, but it's not comprehensive enough. Security testing should be done early and continuously, not just before release. Relying solely on secure coding practices is important but not sufficient. Even with secure coding practices, testing is essential to identify vulnerabilities. Waiting for a single penetration test after development is not effective because waiting until the end can allow many vulnerabilities to go unnoticed during development, leaving the application exposed.
