- B. A change request should be created when the admin wants to send customizations from the current org to another org
- C. Change sets can only be sent between orgs that are affiliated with a production org

- E. Sending a change set between two orgs requires a deployment connection

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:

Three statements that are true about change sets are:

Sending a change set between two orgs requires a deployment connection. A deployment connection is a link between two orgs that allows one org to send change sets to another org.

Change sets can only be sent between orgs that are affiliated with a production org. A production org is an org that is used for live operations and data, and it can have one or more sandbox orgs that are used for development and testing. Change sets can only be sent from a sandbox org to its associated production org, or from one sandbox org to another sandbox org that shares the same production org.

Change sets can contain only modifications made through the Setup menu. A change set is a collection of metadata components that can be deployed from one org to another. Metadata components are customizations that are made through the Setup menu, such as custom objects, fields, workflows, etc.

NEW QUESTION # 51

Which two practices are needed for a custom attribute to map into Order Management assuming the attribute has been created on the necessary objects?

- A. The names must be an exact match
- B. The types must be an exact match (i.e. String to String)
- C. The names must only contain letters and underscores
- D. The types must match within reason

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

Two practices that are needed for a custom attribute to map into Order Management assuming the attribute has been created on the necessary objects are:

The types must match within reason. The data type of the custom attribute in Order Management must match or be compatible with the data type of the corresponding attribute in the external system, such as B2C Commerce or B2B Commerce. For example, if the attribute is a string in B2C Commerce, it must also be a string in Order Management.

The names must be an exact match. The name of the custom attribute in Order Management must be exactly the same as the name of the corresponding attribute in the external system, including capitalization and punctuation. For example, if the attribute is named "kitItem" in B2C Commerce, it must also be named "kitItem" in Order Management.

NEW QUESTION # 53

What are two items that an administrator should consider when building out a flow for one location vs multiple locations?

- A. Multiple locations will introduce nested loops which can make the canvas substantially larger
- B. Multiple locations can lead to limit exceptions
- C. Having multiple locations mandates writing custom Apex code
- D. A default warehouse location should be set first in flows handling multiple locations

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

When building a flow for multiple locations, an administrator should consider the following challenges:

Multiple locations will introduce nested loops which can make the canvas substantially larger. For example, a flow that handles multiple fulfillment orders per order and multiple fulfillment order lines per fulfillment order will need to loop through both levels of records. This can make the flow more complex and harder to maintain. Multiple locations can lead to limit exceptions. For example, a flow that queries or updates a large number of records across multiple locations may hit the SOQL query limit or the DML statement limit. To avoid this, an administrator should use bulkified actions and optimize the flow performance. Reference: Order Fulfillment Flows, [Flow Performance Best Practices]
