- A. Integrate with Azure Service Bus.
- B. Install boto3 & requests library.
- C. Configure IAM Azure remediation script.
- D. Configure IAM AWS remediation script.
- E. Install azure.servicebus & requests library.

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:
To use the automated method within Azure Cloud for streamlining the process of using remediation in the identity and access management (IAM) module, the required actions include configuring the IAM Azure remediation script, integrating with Azure Service Bus, and installing the azure.servicebus & requests library.

These steps ensure that the automated remediation system can communicate effectively with Azure services, execute the necessary remediation actions, and address IAM-related alerts by adjusting permissions and access controls as needed. This automation helps maintain a secure and compliant cloud environment by promptly addressing potential IAM issues.

NEW QUESTION # 223

Which resource and policy type are used to calculate AWS Net Effective Permissions? (Choose two.)

- A. Service Linked Roles
- B. Lambda Function
- C. AWS Service Control Policies (SCPs)
- D. Amazon Resource Names (ARNs) using Wild Cards

Answer: B,C

If your cloud environment has additional resource types, Prisma Cloud does not factor them into the net- effective permissions.
In addition, permissions can also be set by a resource-based policy. The following AWS resource-based policies are supported in the net effective permissions calculation:
Lambda function
S3 bucket
SQS queue
SNS topic
ECS task definition
Secret manager
KMS key
Lambda layer version"

NEW QUESTION # 224

A DevOps lead reviewed some system logs and notices some odd behavior that could be a data exfiltration attempt. The DevOps lead only has access to vulnerability data in Prisma Cloud Compute, so the DevOps lead passes this information to SecOps. Which pages in Prisma Cloud Compute can the SecOps lead use to investigate the runtime aspects of this attack?

- A. The SecOps lead should investigate the attack using Vulnerability Explorer and Runtime Radar.
- B. The SecOps lead should use the Incident Explorer page and Monitor > Events > Container Audits.
- C. The SecOps lead should review the vulnerability scans in the CI/CD process to determine blame.
- D. The SecOps lead should use Incident Explorer and Compliance Explorer.

Answer: B

Explanation:
To investigate the runtime aspects of a potential data exfiltration attempt, the SecOps lead in Prisma Cloud Compute should focus on areas that provide insights into runtime activity and potential threats. C. The SecOps lead should use the Incident Explorer page and Monitor > Events > Container Audits. These sections provide detailed information on security incidents and container-level activities, enabling a thorough investigation into the runtime behavior that might indicate a security issue.

NEW QUESTION # 225
Which statement is true regarding CloudFormation templates?

- A. Request-Header-Field 'cloudformation-version' is required to request a scan.
- B. Scan support does not currently exist for nested references, macros, or intrinsic functions.
- C. Scan support is provided for JSON, HTML and YAML formats.
- D. A single template or a zip archive of template files cannot be scanned with a single API request.

Answer: B

Explanation:
CloudFormation templates, used to describe and provision all the infrastructure resources in cloud environments, support various elements including resources, mappings, parameters, and outputs. However, scan support for CloudFormation templates does not currently exist for nested references, macros, or intrinsic functions (option A). These advanced CloudFormation features can introduce complexity in scanning and interpreting the templates accurately for security and compliance checks.
