NEW QUESTION # 112

You have an Azure subscription that contains a resource group named RG1 and four users named User1, User2, User3, and User4.
You plan to assign the users the following roles for RG1:
* User1: Reader
* User2: Contributor
* User3: Storage Blob Data Reader
* User4: Virtual Machine Contributor
You are evaluating the use of attribute-based access control (ABAC). Which user's role will support the use of ABAC?

- A. User1
- B. User4

- C. User3
- D. User2

Answer: C

Explanation:
Attribute-Based Access Control (ABAC) in Azure enhances role-based access control (RBAC) by adding conditions based on attributes of the user, resource, or environment.
Currently, ABAC is supported only for Azure Storage (Blob and Queue) when used with the appropriate data plane roles, such as Storage Blob Data Reader, Storage Blob Data Contributor, or Storage Blob Data Owner.
In the scenario:
* User1 (Reader) and User2 (Contributor) are assigned management plane roles, not ABAC-supported data roles.
* User3 (Storage Blob Data Reader) is assigned a data plane role, which supports ABAC.
* User4 (Virtual Machine Contributor) also has a management plane role.
Therefore, only User3's role supports ABAC.
Microsoft documentation confirms:
"ABAC is currently supported for Azure Storage when using Azure RBAC roles such as Storage Blob Data Reader or Contributor. ABAC allows conditions on user or resource attributes for fine-grained access."

You have an Azure subscription named Sub1.

How should you complete the PowerShell command? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.
