NEW QUESTION # 170

Aadhaar is a unique-identity number of 12 digits issued to all Indian residents based on their biometric and demographic data. The data is collected by the Unique Identification Authority of India. The Aadhaar database contains the Aadhaar number, name, date of birth, gender and address of over 1 billion individuals. Which of the following datasets derived from that data would be considered the most de-identified?

- A. A count of the years of birth and hash of the person's gender.
- B. A count of the day of birth and hash of the person's first initial of their first name.
- C. A count of the century of birth and hash of the last 3 digits of the person's Aadhaar number.
- D. A count of the month of birth and hash of the person's first name.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 171

SCENARIO

WebTracker Limited is a cloud-based online marketing service located in London. Last year, WebTracker migrated its IT infrastructure to the cloud provider Amazon, which provides SQL Databases and Artificial Intelligence services to WebTracker. The roles and responsibilities between the two companies have been formalized in a standard contract, which includes allocating the role of data controller to WebTracker.

The CEO of WebTracker, Mr. Bond, would like to assess the effectiveness of Amazon's privacy controls, and he recently decided to hire you as an independent auditor. The scope of the engagement is limited only to the marketing services provided by WebTracker, you will not be evaluating any internal data processing activity, such as HR or Payroll.

This ad-hoc audit was triggered due to a future partnership between WebTracker and SmartHome - a partnership that will not require any data sharing. SmartHome is based in the USA, and most recently has dedicated substantial resources to developing smart refrigerators that can suggest the recommended daily calorie intake based on DNA information. This and other personal data is collected by WebTracker.

To get an idea of the scope of work involved, you have decided to start reviewing the company's documentation and interviewing key staff to understand potential privacy risks.

The results of this initial work include the following notes:

- * There are several typos in the current privacy notice of WebTracker, and you were not able to find the privacy notice for SmartHome.
- * You were unable to identify all the sub-processors working for SmartHome. No subcontractor is indicated in the cloud agreement with Amazon, which is responsible for the support and maintenance of the cloud infrastructure.
- * There are data flows representing personal data being collected from the internal employees of WebTracker, including an interface from the HR system.
- * Part of the DNA data collected by WebTracker was from employees, as this was a prototype approved by the CEO of WebTracker.
- * All the WebTracker and SmartHome customers are based in USA and Canada.

Based on the initial assessment and review of the available data flows, which of the following would be the most important privacy risk you should investigate first?

- A. Review the list of subcontractors employed by Amazon and ensure these are included in the formal agreement with WebTracker.
- B. Confirm whether the data transfer from London to the USA has been fully approved by Amazon and the appropriate institutions in the USA and the European Union.
- C. Verify that WebTracker's HR and Payroll systems implement the current privacy notice (after the typos are fixed).
- D. Evaluate and review the basis for processing employees' personal data in the context of the prototype created by WebTracker and approved by the CEO.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 172

SCENARIO

It should be the most secure location housing data in all of Europe, if not the world. The Global Finance Data Collective (GFDC) stores financial information and other types of client data from large banks, insurance companies, multinational corporations and governmental agencies. After a long climb on a mountain road that leads only to the facility, you arrive at the security booth. Your credentials are checked and checked again by the guard to visually verify that you are the person pictured on your passport and national identification card. You are led down a long corridor with server rooms on each side, secured by combination locks built into the doors. You climb a flight of stairs and are led into an office that is lighted brilliantly by skylights where the GFDC Director of Security, Dr. Monique Batch, greets you. On the far wall you notice a bank of video screens showing different rooms in the facility. At the far end, several screens show different sections of the road up the mountain. Dr. Batch explains once again your mission. As a data security auditor and consultant, it is a dream assignment: The GFDC does not want simply adequate controls, but the best and most effective security that current technologies allow.

"We were hacked twice last year," Dr. Batch says, "and although only a small number of records were stolen, the bad press impacted our business. Our clients count on us to provide security that is nothing short of impenetrable and to do so quietly. We hope to never make the news again." She notes that it is also essential that the facility is in compliance with all relevant security regulations and standards.

You have been asked to verify compliance as well as to evaluate all current security controls and security measures, including data encryption methods, authentication controls and the safest methods for transferring data into and out of the facility. As you prepare to begin your analysis, you find yourself considering an intriguing question: Can these people be sure that I am who I say I am? You are shown to the office made available to you and are provided with system login information, including the name of the wireless network and a wireless key. Still pondering, you attempt to pull up the facility's wireless network, but no networks appear in the wireless list. When you search for the wireless network by name, however it is readily found.

What type of wireless network does GFDC seem to employ?

- A. A wireless mesh network.
- B. A reluctant network.
- C. A hidden network.
- D. A user verified network.

NEW QUESTION # 173

Which of the following statements best describes the relationship between privacy and security?

- A. Privacy protects data from being viewed during collection and security governs how collected data should be shared.
- B. Privacy and security are independent; organizations must decide which should be emphasized.
- C. Privacy restricts access to personal information; security regulates how information should be used.
- D. Security systems can be used to enforce compliance with privacy policies.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Security systems are essential for protecting data and ensuring that privacy policies are followed. Effective security measures can enforce access controls, encryption, and other protections that help maintain data confidentiality, integrity, and availability. By implementing robust security systems, organizations can ensure that personal information is handled according to privacy policies and regulatory requirements. The IAPP highlights that security is a foundational component for achieving privacy compliance.
