NEW QUESTION # 80

What can a consultant accomplish in the Predictions page of a model?

- A. If it is decided to follow some of the Einstein Recommendations for model improvement, see what the new model metrics would be.
- B. Create predicted outcome value by manually selecting values for some of the predictor fields.
- C. Estimate the impacted business value of using Einstein Discovery.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the Predictions page of a model within CRM Analytics (formerly Einstein Discovery), users have the capability to interact with the model to see how different input values affect predictions. Here's a detailed look at what can be accomplished:

Manual Input of Predictor Values: Users can manually input or change values for predictor fields to see how these changes alter the predicted outcomes. This is especially useful for testing hypothetical scenarios and understanding how sensitive the model is to various inputs.

Real-Time Interaction: This functionality provides a hands-on way to explore the model's behavior, offering immediate feedback on how input variations impact predictions, which can help in refining the model or in training users on its application.

Scenario Analysis: By adjusting predictor values, users can conduct scenario analyses, which are crucial for strategic planning and decision-making.
