NEW QUESTION # 84

The most important contribution to city design in the United States made by Charles L'Enfant's grand plan for the federal capital city was:

- A. An orientation toward the waterfront.
- B. A central open space.
- C. A grid street pattern.
- D. A pattern of radial streets connecting major locations.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Pierre Charles L'Enfant's 1791 plan for Washington, D.C., introduced a pattern of radial streets connecting major locations (e.g., the Capitol, White House), overlaid on a grid, creating a distinctive urban form that influenced American city design. Option C (pattern of radial streets) is the most significant contribution. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline(2022), under "Fundamental Planning Knowledge," states,

"L'Enfant's plan for Washington, D.C., introduced radial streets connecting focal points, a design innovation that shaped U.S. city planning." Option A (grid pattern) was already common (e.g., Philadelphia). Option B (central open space) was not unique to L'Enfant. Option D (waterfront orientation) was not a primary feature of his plan. The CPC Study Manual(2024) confirms, "L'Enfant's radial street pattern was his most influential contribution to U.S. city design," supporting option C.

Scenario

A site application is complete and is about to go before the planning commission. You have a conflict of interest because you personally own property near the proposed site and stand to benefit from the increase in property value that the new development is projected to generate. If you are the only planner in the community what might you do?

Answer:

Explanation:

See the solution below

Explanation

You are definitely conflicted in this case. So first issue is to recognize this financial conflict of interest and disclose it. (Rule of Conduct 6) You have 2 options. One option is to get approval of your supervisor with full written disclosure as to your personal interest. You may get consent in writing to move forward and complete the review.

The second option is to hire an independent consultant to review the situation. It is good policy for a planning department to pre-qualify consultants for such situations so that the matter can be expeditiously turned over.

This may also be a good route to take if the applicant is a member of the city council and has hiring authority over the planner.
