Splunk Core Certified Power User Exam Sample Questions (Q214-Q219):

NEW QUESTION # 214
What functionality does the Splunk Common Information Model (CIM) rely on to normalize fields with different names?

- A. The rename command.
- B. Field aliases.
- C. Macros.
- D. CIM does not work with different names for the same field.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Explanation
The Splunk Common Information Model (CIM) add-on helps you normalize your data from different sources and make it easier to analyze and report on it3. One of the functionalities that the CIM add-on relies on to normalize fields with different names is field aliases3. Field aliases allow you to assign an alternative name to an existing field without changing the original field name or value2.

By using field aliases, you can map different field names from different sources or sourcetypes to a common field name that conforms to the CIM standard3. Therefore, option B is correct, while options A, C and D are incorrect.

NEW QUESTION # 215
How does a user display a chart in stack mode?

- A. By using the stackcommand.
- B. By changing Stack Mode in the Format menu.
- C. You cannot display a chart in stack mode, only a timechart.
- D. By turning on the Use Trellis Layout option.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 216
Which of the following statements describe calculated fields? (select all that apply)

- A. Calculated fields can be based on an extracted field.
- B. Calculated fields can only be applied to host and sourcetype.
- C. Calculated fields are shortcuts for performing calculations using the eval command.
- D. Calculated fields can be used in the search bar.

Answer: A,C,D

NEW QUESTION # 217
Which of the following is true about Pivot?

- A. Users must use SPL to find events in a Pivot.
- B. Users cannot create visualizations with Pivot.
- C. Users cannot share visualizations created with Pivot.
- D. Users can save reports from Pivot.

Answer: D

Explanation:
In Splunk, Pivot is a tool that allows you to report on a specific data set without using the Splunk Search Processing Language (SPL)1. You can use a drag-and-drop interface to design and generate pivots that present different aspects of your data in the form of tables, charts, and other visualizations12.
One of the features of Pivot is that it allows you to save your reports1. This can be useful when you want to reuse a report or share it with others1. Therefore, it's not true that users cannot share visualizations created with Pivot or that they must use SPL to find events in a Pivot12. It's also not true that users cannot create visualizations with Pivot, as creating visualizations is one of the main functions of Pivot12.

NEW QUESTION # 218
To which of the following can a field alias be applied?

- A. Either a calculated field or an extracted field.
- B. Only one single field in a dataset.
- C. A given host, source, or sourcetype.
- D. Data found in a lookup table.

Answer: A

Explanation:
In Splunk, a field alias is used to create an alternative name for an existing field, making it easier to refer to data in a consistent manner across different searches and reports. Field aliases can be applied to both calculated fields and extracted fields. Calculated fields are those that are created using eval expressions, while extracted fields are typically those parsed from the raw data at index time or search time. This flexibility allows users to streamline their searches by using more intuitive field names without altering the underlying data. Field aliases cannot be applied to data in a lookup table, specific individual fields within a dataset, or directly to a host, source, or sourcetype.
