In the following example, which sharing context will myMethod execute when it is invoked?

- A. Sharing rules will be enforced for the running user.
- B. Sharing rules will be enforced by the instantiating class.
- C. Sharing rules will not be enforced for the running user.
- D. Sharing rules will be inherited from the calling context.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In the provided class:

```
public class myClass {
    public void myMethod() { /* implementation */ }
```

The class myClass is declared without any sharing keyword (with sharing, without sharing, or inherited sharing).

Default Sharing Behavior:

Apex classes without an explicit sharing declaration run in system context, meaning they do not enforce sharing rules.

Option B: Sharing rules will not be enforced for the running user.

Reference:

"If a class is not declared as either with sharing or without sharing, the class does not enforce sharing rules except when it acquires sharing rules from another class."

- Apex Developer Guide: Using the with sharing or without sharing Keywords Why Other Options Are Incorrect:

Option A: Sharing rules are not inherited from the calling context unless inherited sharing is used.

Option C: There is no instantiating class that enforces sharing in this context.

Option D: Sharing rules are not enforced unless with sharing is specified.
