BCI Certificate of the Business Continuity Institute (CBCI) Sample Questions (Q56-Q61):

NEW QUESTION # 56
The type of review that includes interviews with the people involved, activity logs, related media coverage and relevant videos and photos is:

- A. A supplier performance review
- B. A performance appraisal with individual employees
- C. An external audit
- D. A post-incident review

Answer: D

Explanation:
Apost-incident review (PIR)is a comprehensive evaluation conducted after an actual disruption or incident, designed to assess what happened, how the response was managed, and lessons learned. The CBCI 7.0 course details that PIRs often involve gathering qualitative and quantitative data, includinginterviews with participants, examination of activity logs, media coverage, and visual evidencelike photos and videos.
This multi-source review provides a holistic understanding of the incident's impact, the effectiveness of plans, and areas for improvement. It differs from audits or appraisals by its focus on real events rather than planned assessments or individual performance evaluations. PIRs are critical for continuous improvement of the BCMS.

NEW QUESTION # 57
Which of the following is NOT correct in relation to the purpose of defining the scope of the Business Continuity Management System (BCMS)?

- A. It makes the best use of available time and finances
- B. It establishes permanent parameters for the BCMS
- C. It ensures a clear understanding of the areas of the organization that are, and are not, covered by the BCMS
- D. It defines the BCMS on the organization's products, services, and activities

Answer: B

Explanation:
The CBCI 7.0 course explains thatdefining the BCMS scope is a dynamic process, which means that the parameters set are not necessarily permanent and may be reviewed and revised as organizational needs, risks, and priorities evolve. While the scope provides clarity on which parts of the organization, products, services, and activities are included, it must remain flexible to adapt to change. Permanent or fixed parameters risk locking the BCMS into outdated or incomplete coverage, reducing effectiveness. Efficient use of time and resources is a benefit of appropriate scoping, but permanence is not a characteristic of good scope definition.

NEW QUESTION # 58
Which of the following is demonstrated where an organization includes Business Continuity in induction processes and sets Business Continuity objectives for personnel?

- A. The use of validation
- B. The organization's approach to risk assessment

- C. The role of the Business Continuity professional
- D. The organization's Business Continuity culture

Answer: D

Explanation:
Embedding Business Continuity into induction and setting objectives for personnel clearly indicates a mature Business Continuity culture. The CBCI 7.0 course details that a strong culture is characterized by widespread awareness, commitment, and integration of Business Continuity principles into everyday activities. Including continuity in induction familiarizes new staff with the organization's resilience expectations, while individual objectives reinforce personal accountability. This cultural embedding supports sustainable continuity practices and improves the likelihood of effective responses during disruptions. It reflects a proactive organizational mindset rather than isolated activities or roles.

NEW QUESTION # 59
Business as usual (BAU) plans document processes for restoring an organization to its original state and should:

- A. Be based on the availability of primary resources prior to the incident
- B. Focus on resuming activities in reverse order of Recovery Time Objectives (RTOs)
- C. Take into consideration possibility of new vulnerabilities resulting from impacted resources
- D. Be developed in detail prior to any incident occurring

Answer: C

Explanation:
Business as usual (BAU) plans are designed to restore normal operational conditions after a disruption, often returning systems and processes to pre-incident states. The CBCI 7.0 course underlines that these plans must consider new vulnerabilities that may arise as a result of the disruption's impact on resources or operational environments. Incidents can introduce changes such as weakened controls, damaged infrastructure, or altered workflows, which must be addressed to prevent recurrence or new risks. While BAU plans should be prepared in advance, the focus is not just on resource availability or reversing recovery sequences but on understanding the dynamic context post-disruption. This approach ensures resilience not only in restoration but in strengthening the organization against future incidents.

NEW QUESTION # 60
When setting up any individual exercise, which of the following should be taken into consideration in relation to risks to business as usual?

- A. Personnel, including senior managers, should be instructed to consider the exercise as a priority and ignore any risks to business as usual that may arise during the exercise
- B. Any impacts of the exercise on business as usual should be written off in advance as an acceptable cost of carrying out the exercise
- C. The disruption caused by the exercise and any impact should be planned in advance, monitored and controlled during the exercise and minimised
- D. Pre-existing business as usual commitments should be treated as a secondary consideration to ensure that these commitments do not undermine the exercise activity

Answer: C

Explanation:
Exercising business continuity plans involves balancing the need to simulate realistic scenarios while minimizing unintended disruption to normal operations. The CBCI 7.0 course instructs that exercise planners must anticipate and control any business as usual impacts through careful planning, monitoring, and mitigation during the exercise. Ignoring risks or dismissing business as usual commitments undermines organizational operations and can reduce support for continuity activities. Managing disruption effectively ensures exercises achieve their objectives without unnecessary operational costs.
