NEW QUESTION # 41

From which attack does TPM protect information that is stored in hardware?

- A. Physical theft
- B. Overwriting by another application
- C. External software attacks
- D. Insider threat

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Trusted Platform Module (TPM) in PowerEdge servers protects hardware-stored information, such as cryptographic keys, from external software attacks by providing a secure environment for encryption and authentication. TPM safeguards against unauthorized access via software exploits, not insider threats, application overwrites, or physical theft (which requires physical security measures). This enhances server security for sensitive data. Exact extract: "Describe the security features in PowerEdge servers... Explain the role of TPM and Secure Boot."
