HPE Campus Access Switching Expert Written Exam Sample Questions (Q35-Q40):

NEW QUESTION # 35
Which issue may becausing the new door locks on the APs to notwork?

- A. AT power to the AP is too much.
- B. BT power to the AP is too much.
- C. AF power to the AP is not enough.
- D. AT power to the AP is notenough.

Answer: C

Explanation:
New PoE-powered door locks, connected via the PoE passthrough port on Aruba APs, are not working. We need to find the likely cause related to PoE power.
* PoE Passthrough:An AP feature where the AP, powered by PoE from a switch, provides PoE power out to another device connected to one of its Ethernet ports.
* Power Budget:The AP must receive enough power from the switch via its PoE input (e.g., 802.3af, 802.3at, 802.3bt) to power itselfandmeet the power demand of the downstream device (the door lock).
* PoE Standards Power (Approx. Available to Device):
* 802.3af (PoE): ~13 Watts
* 802.3at (PoE+): ~25.5 Watts
* 802.3bt (PoE++): 51W (Type 3) or 71W (Type 4)
* Analysis:Modern APs (especially Wi-Fi 6/6E) can consume significant power themselves (>15W or >25W under load). Standard 802.3af PoE (supplying only ~13W) is often insufficient to power both a modern AP and a downstream PoE device like a door lock. The AP will power up, but won't enable PoE output if its input power budget is insufficient.
* Analysis of Options:
* A, B: Too much power (AT/BT) isn't the issue; devices only draw what they need.
* C: AF power (~13W) received by the AP is very likelynot enoughto power both the AP and the door lock.
* D: AT power (~25.5W)mightbe insufficient if the combined load of the AP and lock exceeds this, but AF being insufficient (C) is a more common limitation.
* Conclusion:Insufficient input power to the AP is the most common reason for PoE passthrough failure.
802.3af (PoE) power is often inadequate.
References:IEEE 802.3 PoE standards (af/at/bt), Aruba Access Point datasheets (PoE requirements, passthrough capabilities/budgets). This relates to "WLAN" (9%) and "Connectivity" (9%) objectives.
