Sample Questions (Q10-Q15):

NEW QUESTION # 10

User Story: As a user I want to be able to calculate tax percentage based on amount of income.

What is the best black box test design technique for verifying the accuracy of this user story?

- A. State transition testing - test all states of income entry.
- B. User story testing - test that the user can enter an income amount and get a result.
- C. Statement testing - test all statements in income calculation.
- D. Equivalence partitioning - test with low, medium and high income.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

The best black box test design technique for verifying the accuracy of this user story is equivalence partitioning. Equivalence partitioning is a technique that divides the input domain of a system into classes or groups that are expected to behave similarly. By testing one value from each class, the tester can reduce the number of test cases while still achieving good coverage. In this case, the input domain of the system is the amount of income, which can be divided into classes based on the tax percentage applied to different income ranges. For example, if the tax percentage is 10% for income below 10,000, 20% for income between 10,000 and 20,000, and 30% for income above 20,000, then the equivalence classes are: low income (<10,000), medium income (10,000-20,000), and high income (>20,000). By testing one value from each class, such as 5,000, 15,000, and 25,000, the tester can verify that the system calculates the correct tax percentage for each income range. This technique is more efficient and effective than testing all possible values of income, or testing only one value of income, or testing the states of income entry, or testing the statements in income calculation. ### NEW QUESTION # 11

A calculator application is being developed. The third sprint has been planned to add functionality to the calculator to allow scientific calculations.

Which TWO examples below represent activities that would likely be managed on an agile task board for the third sprint?

- 1) A task to design the features planned for the next sprint.
- 2) A task to run an acceptance test for a user story.
- 3) A task to automate regression tests.
- 4) A task to participate in training in preparation for the fourth sprint.
- 5) A task to produce a daily progress report for the agile team members.

- A. 1, 4
- B. 2, 3
- C. 4, 5
- D. 1, 5

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 12

Which one of the following is a testable acceptance criterion?

- A. The response time to confirm a customer submission must not exceed 5 seconds.
- B. The solution shall support business processes.
- C. The tools for testing are tested before use and are meeting the requirements.
- D. The system shall be easy to use.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

A testable acceptance criterion is a condition that can be verified or measured objectively by the tester, customer, or stakeholder. It should be specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-bound (SMART). A testable acceptance criterion should also be written from the user's perspective, achievable within the sprint, and written before development begins1.

Among the four options, only option C meets these criteria. It is specific (the response time to confirm a customer submission), measurable (must not exceed 5 seconds), achievable (within the technical and business constraints), relevant (to the user's needs and expectations), and time-bound (must be met in every sprint). It is also written from the user's perspective, testable (by measuring the response time), and written before development (as part of the user story definition).

Option A is not testable because it is vague and subjective. What does it mean to support business processes?

How can this be verified or measured? Option B is also not testable because it is subjective and ambiguous.

What does it mean to be easy to use? How can this be verified or measured? Option D is not testable because it is not written from the user's perspective. It is an internal quality criterion for the testing team, not an acceptance criterion for the product or feature.

NEW QUESTION # 13

A Scrum project is aimed at developing an online travel website based on an IBE (Internet Booking Engine), to provide booking of flights. The website will allow customers to specify their travel requirements, and once these requirements are received, the website will offer a list of available flights which customers can book. A single Scrum team will work on this project and the project will start with a Sprint Zero.

Which of the following statements best describes how a tester on the Scrum team should contribute during the Sprint Zero?

- A. The tester should work together with the rest of the team to identify the product backlog and create an initial system architecture and high-level prototypes
- B. The tester should individually produce the list of the product backlog items that the team will commit to deliver at the end of the first regular sprint
- C. The tester should work together with the rest of the team to produce the list of the product backlog items that the team will commit to deliver at the end of the first regular sprint
- D. While the other team members are working on the project plan, the tester should individually create an initial test strategy for all test levels

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

From CTFL-AT Syllabus v4.0, Section 2.2 Release and Iteration Planning:

"During early phases like Sprint Zero, testers collaborate with the team to identify the product backlog, define high-level test strategies, and contribute to the overall planning and architecture discussions." Therefore, Option A is correct - testers collaborate from the beginning, not as isolated contributors.

* Option B suggests individual work, which is against Agile principles.

* Option C is incorrect - the backlog items committed for Sprint 1 are determined during Sprint Planning, not in Sprint Zero.

NEW QUESTION # 14

Which of the following is a typical task performed by a tester within a Scrum team?

- A. Coaching other team members in self-organization and cross-functionality
- B. Prioritizing the items in the product backlog
- C. Removing impediments to the Scrum team's progress
- D. Suggesting improvements in sprint retrospectives

Answer: D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

From CTFL-AT Syllabus v4.0, Section 5.1 and 5.3:

"Testers, like all team members, participate in retrospectives and are encouraged to suggest improvements to team processes and product quality." So Option A is correct. Testers actively engage in retrospectives and suggest improvements based on their testing experience.

* Option B refers to Scrum Master responsibilities.

* Option D is the responsibility of the Product Owner.
