The ECIH v2 certification exam is suitable for IT professionals who are interested in advancing their career in the information security field. It is also suitable for those who work in incident handling and response, such as security analysts, network administrators, IT managers, and incident handlers. Candidates who pass the exam will have a deeper understanding of incident handling procedures and be able to apply them effectively in their organizations.

The ECIH certification exam is a multiple-choice exam that is administered by EC-Council. 212-89 Exam consists of 50 questions and has a duration of 120 minutes. 212-89 exam is designed to test an individual's knowledge and understanding of various cybersecurity concepts, including incident handling and response, network security, and malware analysis.

EC-COUNCIL EC Council Certified Incident Handler (ECIH v3) Sample Questions (Q112-Q117):

NEW QUESTION # 112
Incident management team provides support to all users in the organization that are affected by the threat or attack. The organization's internal auditor is part of the incident response team. Identify one of the responsibilities of the internal auditor as part of the incident response team:

- A. Identify and report security loopholes to the management for necessary actions
- B. Coordinate incident containment activities with the information security officer
- C. Configure information security controls
- D. Perform necessary action to block the network traffic from suspected intruder

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 113
Which of the following risk management processes identifies the risks, estimates the impact, and determines sources to recommend proper mitigation measures?

- A. Risk mitigation
- B. Risk avoidance
- C. Risk assessment
- D. Risk assumption

Answer: C

Explanation:
Risk assessment is the risk management process that involves identifying risks, estimating their impact on the organization, and determining the sources of those risks to recommend appropriate mitigation measures. The goal of a risk assessment is to understand the nature of potential threats, vulnerabilities, and the consequences of those risks materializing, allowing an organization to make informed decisions about how to address them effectively. Risk assumption involves accepting the potential impact of a risk, risk mitigation focuses on reducing the likelihood or impact of risks, and risk avoidance involves taking actions to avoid the risk entirely. References:The ECIH v3 course materials include discussions on risk management processes, outlining the importance of risk assessment in identifying and preparing for potential security threats.

NEW QUESTION # 114
An attacker after performing an attack decided to wipe evidences using artifact wiping techniques to evade forensic investigation. He applied magnetic field to the digital media device, resulting in an entirely clean device of any previously stored data.
Identify the artifact wiping technique used by the attacker.

- A. Disk cleaning utilities
- B. Disk degaussing/destruction
- C. File wiping utilities
- D. Syscall proxying

Answer: B

Explanation:
The technique described, where an attacker applies a magnetic field to a digital media device to clean it of any previously stored data, is known as disk degaussing. Degaussing is a method used to erase a disk or tape by exposing it to a strong magnetic field, destroying the magnetic data storage mechanism and leaving the device clean of any data. This process is effectively used for wiping digital evidence in a way that makes recovery impossible, serving as a method of anti-forensics. Unlike file wiping utilities or disk cleaning utilities, which overwrite or delete data (potentially leaving traces that can be recovered), degaussing physically alters the storage medium itself, making data recovery unfeasible.References:The ECIH v3 certification program discusses various artifact wiping techniques, including degaussing, as part of understanding anti-forensic methods that attackers use to evade detection and investigation.
